

PICO PICO FLED DEATH HERE 90 YEARS AGO TODAY

Exclusive! Journal Publishes for First Time Early California Governor's Own Story of Refuge in Capistrano

By ALFONSO YORBA
AUGUST 14, 1846—Ninety years ago today. Into the dusty plaza of the sleeping little pueblo of San Juan Capistrano at sundown rides a pair of horsemen from Santa Ana Viejo.
Let us look at the leader of the two, who rides slightly in advance of his companion.
He is a stocky, well-built man between 45 and 46 years of age, with a dark, strong face and a commanding air. Well dressed, well mounted, and armed with pistol and dagger, he rides up to the red brick front wing of the ex-mission building, attended by a militiaman, from whose lance flutters a green, white and red pennon. From the rancheros gathered in the spacious arched corridor goes up the cry "Viva el Gobernador!" but Governor Pico silences them with a wave of his hand and asks for his brother-in-law, Don Juan Forster, whose residence this is.

AFTER conversing for a moment with the governor, Don Juan turns to the rancheros. "Friends, it is the desire of his excellency the citizen governor that you keep his presence here an absolutely secret, both from your friends and relatives. For the security of the republic you must not mention his arrival here, Viva Mexico!" "Viva!" answer the paisanos in a low voice as they silently turn to mount their horses and return to their ranchos and houses. Thus, in contrast to the elaborate receptions always accorded their beloved chief executive, but with extreme loyalty and devotion, the vecinos of San Juan Capistrano silently receive into their midst their only hope for the continuance of Mexican rule in California.

HERE they are to harbor and conceal him from all enemies, foreign and domestic, until his departure from the vicinity on the way to Baja California and Sonora—there to seek aid from the supreme government for the struggling frontier province.
For American armies had been closing in on the California capital city, Los Angeles, for nearly a month, intent on taking it and seizing the governor and his staff and with the fall of the city imminent, together with a complete lack of defensive war materials, the legislative assembly had asked the governor to escape south as best he could and seek aid from the sister states of the republic. But let the famous California governor tell us in his own words, as inscribed in his untranslated and unpublished autobiography now in the Bancroft library files at Berkeley, of his thrilling escape from the invading armies and his concealment here in this mission and neighborhood 90 years ago.

"THE 13th of August I began my trip to Sonora, accompanied by Don Ignacio del Valle and a militiaman named Secundino Higuera. I left (Los Angeles) at about 10 or 11 o'clock at night. We reached the rancho of Teodosio Yorba, called the Santa Ana. (Teodosio lived at Santa Ana Viejo, now called Olive, on the family rancho Santiago de Santa Ana).
"Fremont was camped with his forces at the house of Jose (Please Turn to Page 7, Column 3)

Kentucky Hanging Turned Into Carnival By Mob of 10,000

CHILDREN SEE NEGRO DIE BY NOOSE

Souvenir Hunters Rip Off Hood as Victim Still Breathes

By DILLARD STOKES
Associated Press Staff Writer
OWENSBORO, Ky.—Souvenir hunters ripped the hangman's hood from the face of Rainey Bethea immediately after the 22-year-old negro was hanged here today before a huge throng for assault upon a 70-year-old white woman.

Bethea still breathed when a few persons from the crowd rushed the four-foot wire enclosure about the scaffold and scrambled for fragments as mementos of the spectacle. The crowd, estimated at upwards of 10,000, was for the most part orderly, except for a few hoots during administration of the last rites by a priest.

Mrs. Florence Thompson, sheriff, who directed preparations for the hanging, staged in a three-acre lot, left to Arthur Hash, former Louisville policeman, the throwing of the trigger which dropped the negro to his death. She did not appear publicly.

Hash sprung the trap upon signal from Consulting Executive C. Phil Hanna at 5:28 a. m. C. S. T. Dr. W. L. Tyler and Dr. B. H. Seigler, Owensboro, pronounced Bethea dead at 5:44 1/2 a. m. Dr. Tyler said the neck was broken cleanly by the drop. He expressed surprise that the heart beat continued 16 1/2 minutes.
The hanging climaxed a night of excitement in Owensboro, whose normal 25,000 population was swelled by many thousands from (Please Turn to Page 10, Col. 4)

Son of Knute Rockne Insane

CHICAGO, (AP)—Adjuncted insane by County Judge Win G. Knoch, at a hearing conducted at the psychopathic hospital, William Rockne, 19, son of the late Knute Rockne, was to be taken today to the state hospital for the insane at Elgin, Ill.

Dr. Francis G. Gerty, medical director of the psychopathic hospital, testified at the hearing that Rockne is suffering dementia praecox. Dr. Gerty said he had been placed under observation at the hospital last Friday.

Huskies Capture Rowing Title

By ALAN GOULD

GRUNAU, Germany, (AP)—Coming from behind in the last 500 meters, the University of Washington today won the Olympic eight-oared rowing championship. After Italy had maintained the lead from the start right up to the 1500-meter mark, the Huskies came through with a brilliant spurt to win the title and keep unbroken American domination of eight-oared rowing competition.

Starting with 1920 when the United States first entered eight-oared Olympic competition, American college crews have won each time—Navy in 1920, Yale in 1924 and the University of California in 1928 and 1932.

The Americans' spurt in the final 500 meters gave them the championship by a one-length margin over Italy, the 1932 runner-up.

Admits Killing

STRIKE HANGS ON WAGES

County Vegetable Men
And Workers to Talk
New Scale Saturday

Unless Orange county Japanese vegetable growers and their Mexican employees reach an agreement on a new wage scale by Sept. 1, Orange county may have another strike.

Such was the statement given out today by Lucas Lucio, local Mexican consular representative, who announced that the growers and workers are scheduled to meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the Sol Gonzales hall, 306 East Fourth street, to discuss new wage terms. Lucio said approximately 2000 workers may walk out if they fail to obtain an increase in wages. Under the present scale, approved in March, 1935, the workers are paid 25 cents an hour for a nine-hour day. That wage agreement expires Aug. 31, and the workers are seeking an increase to 30 cents an hour for a nine-hour day.

Thomas Barker, deputy state labor commissioner, is scheduled to preside over the wage conference tomorrow.

Germany was adjudged the third place finisher in a blanket finish with Great Britain fourth, Hungary fifth and Switzerland sixth.

Italy's time was 6:26; Germany's, 6:26.4.

THORPE WILL SUE AGAIN FOR CHILD

Mary Astor's Diary Is Impounded by Court;
Kaufman Sought

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Counsel for Dr. Franklin Thorpe planned today to reopen "for a complete and thorough hearing" the custody contest which resulted in a court order giving Dr. Thorpe and his ex-wife, Mary Astor, alternate custody of their daughter.

Several hours after Superior Judge C. Edwin J. Knight approved a settlement under which 4-year-old Marylyn Thorpe will live with her film actress mother nine months of the year and with the Hollywood physician the remaining three, Joseph Anderson, attorney for Dr. Thorpe, announced his intention to reopen the battle.

Of the diary, Judge Knight said in approving the settlement: "It is an order of the court that the diary be possessed and sealed and placed in a depository for safe keeping. This depository cannot release the diary without an order of the court."

"Let neither parent feel that either has gained an advantage over the other," Judge Knight read from the bench, "for if there is any victory in this ending of a most unfortunate controversy, it lies in the fact that an innocent child has been spared the further likelihood of future grief and humiliation."

At the same time Sheriff's Deputy Ray Bogie announced he would search the home of Moss Hart, playwright and collaborator with George S. Kaufman, in an effort to arrest Kaufman.

Kaufman is sought on a bench warrant after his failure to appear in court when subpoenaed by attorneys for Dr. Thorpe.

SOVIET PLOT IS NIPPED

MOSCOW, (AP)—Discovery of a plot directly attributed to the exiled Leon Trotsky and directed against leaders of the Soviet regime was announced by the government today.

Sixteen persons were arrested. The announcement said Trotsky sent agents into Russia from abroad to carry out terrorist activities.

France, Russia Exchange Ideas

PARIS, (AP)—France and Russia, bound in a mutual defense pact, are exchanging ideas on warfare in the air.

Military, aeronautic and political experts will leave Paris tomorrow for Russia, it was learned today, to determine what progress France's Soviet friend has made in the air and to swap plans covering development in fighting craft.

Seven Freed on Rioting Charges

Rioting charges against seven Mexicans were dismissed yesterday in La Habra, as the district attorney's office was unable to establish identification for any of the defendants.

The seven were charged with rioting July 6, the date of widespread raids on orange orchards throughout the county, but were not identified by witnesses.

$85 Burglary of Store 'Just Slips' Proprietor's Mind

Burglary of her store and the fact that she lost $85 from a cash register "just slipped her mind," Mrs. Myrtle M. Gleason, proprietor of a Sunset Beach grocery, told sheriff's officers yesterday.

"There's not much use sending an officer now, because I forgot to call sooner," said Mrs. Gleason, whose store was burglarized Tuesday night. The intruders, she said, got in by a window, and took the $85 in bills and silver from the cash drawer.

KVOE RAISES GIANT MAST

Steel Aerial Weighing 3 1/2 Tons Erected at
New Station Site

Three and one-half tons of steel swung into the air near the Willoughby Country club grounds this morning and soared to a height of 162 feet.

The steel is radio KVOE's new vertical radiator, which makes the local station the third on the Pacific coast to use such a device in place of the ordinary aerial. It will give the station a greater sending radius with the same power.

Fitted Into Socket
While eight workmen guided the steel pole into an insulator socket, a power winch lifted it from the ground. Slowly it rose, and as slowly settled to its concrete base. To keep the pole from bending as it rose, workmen lashed on a 50-foot section of telegraph pole as a spint.

All day yesterday the crew, from Pacific Crane & Rigging, Inc., prepared for today's task. They pushed and tugged to raise a 40-foot wooden pole, which they anchored with guy wire.

By means of a power winch and a pulley block at the top of the 40-foot pole they raised a 50-foot pole. This in turn raised a 75-foot pole. Then two poles were spliced together to a length of 107 feet. It was this pole that finally lifted the steel mast.

Stand 100-Mile Gale
Consolidated Steel company, Los Angeles, manufactured the new radiator. It tapers from 16 inches in diameter at the base to four and one-half inches at the top. Engineered to stand a 100-mile-per-hour gale, it will support a man at its top.

Painted orange and white, the pole bears two red lights on the top and will be lighted with flood lights to warn aviators.

PRIEST TALKS AT CONCLAVE

CLEVELAND, (AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin told delegates at the opening session of the National Union for Social Justice convention today, "we will not participate in any social revolution which would reduce such good people who are represented here to tin cups or beggary."

Father Coughlin added, "America hasn't failed nor has the constitution, but it is sad to remark that sometimes Americans fail to preserve the constitution."

As Father Coughlin appeared at the speakers platform he was greeted with a 15-minute demonstration.

STRIKE HALTS PRESSES IN SEATTLE

Hearst Paper Suspends Publication as News
Staff Walks Out

SEATTLE, (AP)—Publication of the Post-Intelligencer was suspended today by a strike called by the Seattle chapter of the American Newspaper Guild, supported by the Seattle Central Labor council.

The newspaper failed to publish its morning edition after picket lines swung around the Post-Intelligencer building and members of the mechanical unions refused to pass through.

An executive of the Hearst newspaper said plans were not completed for resuming publication and he did not know whether its Saturday editions would appear.

40 Newsmen Out
Out of 80 employees in the newsroom, 22 entered the walkout in protest against the discharge of two guild members and in a demand for recognition of the guild as a collective bargaining agency, the executive said.

Richard Sells, president of the Seattle guild chapter, said 40 of the 68 newsroom employees eligible for membership in the guild reported themselves on strike this morning. Department executives were not included in the list of eligibles.

Pickets paced the sidewalks around the building throughout the night, refusing to let anyone enter. Longshoremen's and teamsters' pickets joined the group. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

FIND BODIES OF MINERS

MOUNTAIN CITY, Nev. (AP)—Lethal fumes balked determined attempts by grim-faced miners today to recover remaining bodies of six men from the black, gas-filled depths of a copper mine.

A. P. Lofquist, Mountain City Copper Company mine superintendent, impatiently awaited additional oxygen equipment from Salt Lake City.

"We can't do much until we get it," he said. "The air's getting plenty thick down there and gas is pouring in from somewhere—a fissure probably, opened by blasting operations."

The bodies of John Sheppard, 31, of Wellington, Colo., and William Burns, 48, of Mountain City, were brought up shortly after midnight from the 500-foot level as fearful women and children of this mushrooming northern Nevada mining camp crowded around the entrance to the shaft. They had been there ever since news of the tragedy spread in early evening.

Lofquist said the bodies of Lawrence Willis, 32, of Emmett, Idaho; June Barr, 45, of Mammoth, Ore., and Albert Atel, 41, and Frank Tixiera, 44, Mountain City, rest in the winze where they were overcome.

Pretty Miss Elizabeth Meyer smiles as she drops a nickel in one of the new Park-o-Grafs set up temporarily in front of Santa Ana city hall. City council is considering installing 400 of the parking meters in the business district to relieve the parking problem. The nickel entitles her to park for one hour.

Woe Betide Parker Without a Watch

What are these new parking meters and how do they work? This question was on everyone's tongue tip in Santa Ana today following news in The Journal yesterday that the city council is considering installation of 400 meters in the shopping section as a possible solution to downtown parking congestion.

So a reporter set out to get the story. Mayor Fred Rowland and Councilman Bill Penn volunteered to be guides.

Down at city hall they found a sample machine, called the Park-o-Graf. The Park-o-Graf stands 4 1/2 feet high in its stocking feet and wears a coat of aluminum (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

ORANGE PILOT IN MOVIES

LaVerne W. Browne of Orange jumped today from the pilot's seat of a TWA air liner straight into the movies.

A chance meeting between the Orange man, co-pilot on a transcontinental plane, and B. P. Schulberg, Hollywood producer, resulted in Browne being offered a screen test by the film magnate.

The test was good, and Schulberg was enthusiastic. Today Browne signed a seven-year contract at a starting salary of approximately $18,000 a year.

The Orange man is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Browne. He has been married three and one-half years.

"You Gave Us a Square Deal"

"One of the reasons I am taking your paper is because you have given us a square deal." A nice little old lady with gray hair, but with a determined glint in her eye, was speaking. "We Townsend people have been unjustly treated by some of the papers, but The Journal has always been fair and willing to state our side of the case," she continued. "We don't expect anybody to back our plans unless they want to, but we do ask that it be given a fair hearing."

That incident typifies the feeling that is spreading through Orange county. The Journal is glad to print the official message of any group. People are beginning to realize that they can always get a square deal in The Journal.

HEAD DENIES PARTY FUND COERCION

Democrats Donate at Rally; Campaign Groups Named

"It's absurd. There's no truth in it. There was nothing said about everybody giving any definite amount."

Thus Horace Head, county Democratic campaign manager, today denied rumors that government employees were to be required to donate 3 per cent of their annual salaries to the "I'll sell campaign fund" or else their jobs wouldn't be so certain.

Head, who presided last night at a campaign committee meeting at the junior college, said he did mention contributions by two postmasters which amounted to approximately 3 per cent of their annual salaries, but said he did not apply this statement to everyone present.

Denies Coercion
"I definitely made the statement not once, but several times during the course of the meeting that contributions were asked of all supporters of President Roosevelt, but that each was expected to give only what he felt able to give," Head said. "Nothing was said about coercion, or telling anyone what he must give."

He did announce, he said, that Postmaster Frank Harwood of Santa Ana had pledged $100, which amounts to a little more than 3 per cent of his government salary. He added that Louis Hoskins, Anaheim postmaster, had already turned in his check for $100. Subscription blanks were passed out at the close of the meeting "to save time and running around," Head said, but no suggestion of "3 per cent" was made.

Names Davis Aide
More than 150 Democrats attended the session, at which Head announced his campaign committee. He named Deputy District Attorney James L. Davis, formerly mentioned as a candidate for the county managership, as an assistant manager. Other assistant managers are D. W. Huston, Huntington Beach; George Thompson, Newport; Orin Sisson, Orange; and Sam Nau, Tustin.

Joe Peterson, Orange, was named secretary; and E. E. Wright, Santa Ana, was appointed treasurer.

Committee appointments follow:
Publicity: B. Z. McKinney, Santa Ana, chairman; James Heffron, Anaheim; C. W. Patrick, Huntington Beach; Paul Vissner, Santa Ana; R. G. Chambers, Costa Mesa.

Other Committees
Speakers and public meetings: Steve Gallagher, Anaheim, chairman; Curtis S. Burrow, Santa Ana; William Galliene, Huntington Beach; Lloyd Verry, Fullerton; Dr. W. M. Tipple, Orange.

5-YEAR-OLD SPEED CASE DROPPED

An appeal to the superior court here on the same grounds used by Francis Lederer, famous actor, to outlaw speed limits in California yesterday ended for all time a speeding charge which has been pending for Mrs. Edna Fether of Downey for five years.

Superior Judge James L. Allen reversed the decision of Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison finding Mrs. Fether guilty of speeding and sentencing her to five days in jail. Mrs. Fether pleaded guilty July 13, 1931, and after spending two or three days of her sentence, appealed and was released on bond. She was never called back to answer the charge.

Can't File New One
District Attorney W. F. Menton said today Judge Allen's decision ended prosecution under the complaint against Mrs. Fether, and that the statute of limitations prevented filing a new complaint on the old charge.

Exceeding the speed limit is not a violation of law unless it is proved that the speed is unsafe in view of the amount of traffic, condition of the road, and other factors, it was determined last year in the Lederer case before an appellate court. Mrs. Fether's attorneys, Richard Cantillon and John Glover, gave the same grounds for appeal, alleging also that no proper hearing was given, that Justice Morrison did not read the complaint to Mrs. Fether, and that Mrs. Fether had not waived time for sentencing.

Intimate Influence
Intimations of outside influence as the reason appeal remained pending so long were contained in Justice Morrison's affidavit to the superior court in connection with the appeal. He declared Mrs. Fether told him she was a friend of E. Raymond Cato, state chief of the highway patrol, and that she would not go to jail.

Any time after the appeal has been filed 60 days and not completed, the district attorney could have moved for dismissal of the appeal and sent Mrs. Fether back to finish her jail sentence, according to authorities. Instead, the case lay dormant for five years.

Missing Patient Can Be Thankful He Wasn't Shot

"Station 90 calling all cars and all stations... an escaped prisoner..."

But the whole thing was a mistake, and Raymond Avala, 20, who walked away from the county hospital last night, wasn't a prisoner and he was lucky he wasn't shot.

The police radio last night broadcast a description of Avala, saying he had escaped from the county hospital. Officers in radio cars took it for granted Avala was a prisoner being held there by police or sheriff's officers.

They checked up this morning, though, and nobody seemed to want him as a prisoner. County hospital attendants reported he was only a patient there, and had walked away last night. They weren't excited about it, either.

So the sheriff's office, hoping nobody had shot the "escaped prisoner," cancelled the broadcast. Avala was still reported missing.

Miss Wollaston Passes Away

Death today claimed Miss Harriette Wollaston at her home, 642 North Ross street. She had been a resident of Santa Ana since 1899, coming here from Minnesota.

Her mother, Mrs. Lillian M. Wollaston, a sister, Mrs. H. Y. Evans, and three brothers, Charles, William and Frank Wollaston survive.

The Rev. W. J. Hatter will conduct funeral services at 10 a. m. Monday in the Smith and Tutill chapel. Burial will take place in Fairhaven cemetery.

Set Trial for Theft Suspect

W. K. Murphy, accused of grand theft and issuing fictitious checks, will go on trial before a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court Sept. 14. Judge James L. Allen ruled today.

Murphy pleaded not guilty to both charges.

REBELS EXECUTE 1000 MILITAMEN

LISBON, Portugal. (AP)—More than a thousand government militiamen, including a hundred women, died in a mass execution by rebel forces at Almendralejo, a correspondent of the newspaper Diario Noticias reported today.

Lisbon heard the city of Badajoz was in flames. Refugees streaming across the Portuguese border said most of the victims were innocent women and children and old people.

700 FACE DEATH IN SAN SEBASTIAN

SAN SEBASTIAN. (AP)—Hundreds of persons faced possible death before firing squads today in reprisal for rebel bombardment of government-held towns on the Spanish northern seaboard. Scores, augmenting some 700 "rightist" hostages incarcerated in San Sebastian, were seized by government militia in reply to a rebel threat to destroy San Sebastian and its neighboring town of Irun.

A rebel warship lay offshore in the Bay of Biscay ready to open fire. San Sebastian armed itself against a repetition of yesterday's rebel aerial bombardment in which eight persons were reported killed.

Both men and women were arrested indiscriminately by the government military.

One government sympathizer announced "we will kill two hostages for each citizen wounded by rebel air attacks and seven for each one killed."

San Sebastian, bullet and shell-riddled by almost four weeks of warfare between rebel Fascists seeking to overthrow Madrid's socialist government, and troops loyal to the regime—which is supported by Communists—was hard pressed for both food and water.

Accusations that the Spanish revolt had monarchial as well as Fascist support, and that the House of Bourbon hoped to re-establish government by sceptre, were made in the Madrid press.

A rebel radio broadcast announced confirmation of the sinking of the government warship Jaime I by rebel bombs, but this was disputed in Madrid.

The French government was understood in diplomatic circles to have urged Madrid to grant German demands for satisfaction in the alleged slaying of German nationals in Barcelona and confiscation of Reich airplanes.

NEW BAKERY OPENS TODAY

Residents of Santa Ana and vicinity have been invited to attend the formal opening of the new Heim bakery building, at 1430 South Main street, which will continue throughout this afternoon and evening, Joe Mahan, manager, said today.

The new building here marks completion of an expansion program in this district which started five years ago when P. H. Heim began his plan of consumer delivery of bakery goods. The structure, of reinforced concrete covering a floor space of more than 8000 square feet, was built by local labor, Mahan pointed out.

A feature of the new plant will be a modernly-equipped kitchen where Miss Jane Sterling, home economist, will give cooking demonstrations.

2 DENY GUILT IN FATAL CRASH

Two men allegedly involved in fatal automobile accidents today pleaded not guilty before Superior Judge James L. Allen, one to a charge of manslaughter; the other to a charge of negligent homicide.

Trial of Jose B. Maese, Mexican worker from the Irvine ranch, on charges of manslaughter was set for Sept. 3 when he pleaded not guilty. He will be tried before Judge H. G. Ames without a jury.

Maese is accused of causing the death of Cecil Ray Trujillo, 4, on July 25 by crushing the child between his car and a house.

John L. Armstrong, who faces two charges of negligent homicide based on the deaths of Neven E. Ward and Edward O. Stokes in an accident July 22, pleaded not guilty. His trial was set for Sept. 16 before Judge Ames. His attorney, Loren Smith, asked a jury trial.

Rule Dairy Act Constitutional

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Superior Judge Martin I. Welsh today ruled the Thorpe fair trade act for the benefit of the dairy industry is constitutional in all of its particulars.

He recently ruled certain sections were constitutional and yesterday the Bay District Ice Cream Manufacturers Association filed an action with consent of A. A. Brock, state director of agriculture, to determine the validity of the remainder of the state law.

MORE ABOUT METERS

Its body is a long pipe three inches in diameter, its head looks somewhat like a flattened rural mail box, with a little glass window through which a rotary clock tells the time and a hole to receive your nickel. (See picture above.)

How It Works
When a motorist wants to park in one of the parking stalls guarded by a meter, he drops his nickel in the hole, turns the dial, and the ratory clock starts rotating.

For the next 60 minutes the face of the clock shows green through the glass window. Then there is a five-minute grace period to give the late parker a slight break. After the period of grace elapses, the window shows red—and woe betide the unlucky automobilist who overstays the allotted time. The first traffic cop that comes along writes out a ticket, and then it's a matter of the judge.

"Nothing Definite"
"The council has done nothing definite yet about putting in the meters, and will take no arbitrary action," said Mayor Rowland. "We are seriously considering it, but it is such a major step that we won't go into it until the people and the merchants have had the chance to voice their views. It is unfortunate that the mistaken impression got out that we had contracted for the meters."

Parking meters are the coming thing, the city officials believe. They cite the cases of Oklahoma City, El Paso, Dallas, Miami, Kansas City and other communities where the meters have been set up and where they assertedly have done much to solve parking congestion.

Revenue Estimated
The meters would mean considerable revenue to the city, says Councilman Penn, pointing out that on 400 installations the income should run about $4000 a month, which could be used for general fund, park purposes, street improvements or to reduce the taxes.

"If Santa Ana is the first city in Southern California to install the park-o-grafs, the company will allow us a four months' trial, and will remove them at the end of that time if they are not wanted," the mayor explained.

How It's Divided
Under this arrangement, 85 per cent of the money placed in the meters would go into a fund to buy them at the end of the trial period, and 15 per cent would go to the city. If the machines are not kept, the company would retain the 85 per cent.

Each meter costs $61 on this basis, and would pay for itself in time, the mayor pointed out.

Installation of the devices would be about $1 each. On diagonal parking the present painted stalls would be used, but on parallel parking stall marks would have to be painted. The installation cost would be borne by the 15 per cent paid to the city.

"Not a Secret"
"Why I remember a story in The Journal about the parking meter proposal here several weeks ago," he added.

Council Ernest Layton is now in the Midwest consulting officials, merchants and the public in cities where meters are in operation so that the council may have first-hand data in addition to the written information now at city hall.

Luther Lindauer, La Habra, left an estate of $110,000 when he died Aug. 11. It was revealed this morning when his widow, Mrs. Lucy Lindauer, filed his will for probate in superior court.

The widow was named sole heir. Mrs. Lindauer's petition declares that $100,000 of the estate was held by the couple in joint tenancy and that the remainder was personal property of her husband.

YOUNG PURSE LOOTERS IN CUSTODY

Boys, 10 and 12, Admit Rifling Handbags at Courthouse Here

Two youthful burglars who robbed purses and desks in courthouse offices while selling weekly magazines in the juvenile home today, awaiting trial. The two boys, brothers 10 and 13 years old, assertedly confessed the thefts to police when they were arrested last night.

The boys were arrested by police after Mrs. Isabel Duran, nurse in the county health department, told them her purse had been rifled yesterday afternoon and $4.50 in cash stolen. She said the boys had been in the office that afternoon. Arrested at their home on Sixth street, the boys assertedly confessed thefts of 26 cents and 50 cents on other occasions from courthouse offices.

The older boy, he said, spotted the purses, then the 10-year-old stole them. The younger boy got $12 from yesterday's loot, and his brother kept $2.50, they said.

FOUR DIE IN ARMY PLANE CRASH

NEW KENT COURTHOUSE, Va., (AP)—An army plane, catching fire in flight, crashed on a farm near here last night, killing three of its crew of four.

The fourth man, Private N. D. Flinn, 21, of McGuffey, Ohio, jumped to safety with a parachute.

Langley field officers said the three killed were Lieut. Willard S. Marvin, Riverside, Calif.; Private John J. Maher of McKeesport, Pa., and Private Crittenden. They said the plane, a bomber, was on a practice flight from Langley field.

Cause Unknown
C. T. Crump, a resident near here, said he saw the plane fall. He said it resembled a huge comet, with a tail of fire.

The bodies were burned beyond recognition. One of the victims was thrown clear of the plane, the body being found about 20 feet from the wreck.

The cause of the fire and crash could not be learned immediately. Flinn was "shaky" after his narrow escape and was not able to give many details. Officers said he landed with his parachute about 300 yards from the spot where the plane struck, and dashed to the burning wreck. He said the heat was so intense, however, that he could not reach the crew.

Isolated Farm
Flinn said the pilot ordered the crew to bail out, but that he alone was able to get out of the plane. He said he had difficulty in opening the door and that the plane was comparatively close to the ground before he could leap.

The plane crashed about 10 o'clock last night on the Coucias

Flinn was on his second flight. He went to Langley field recently from Ohio.

NEW KLAMM CURING IS POPULAR

He knows how to get exactly the right flavor by pickling and curing meat. But it's a secret.

So says George Klamm of the Broadway market, in the Grand Central Market. Since introduction of his new pickling and curing process to the retail trade last Saturday, Klamm has been besieged by inquiries about the process, he reports. Retail sale of the product will be confined exclusively to his market, he says.

His new exclusive process, Klamm says, is the product of many months' work.

Breakfast Honors Thomas McFadden

"Fewer and better laws—rather a scarcity instead of an abundance of legislation, more ways of reducing taxes than more ways for spending taxes, less extravagance in government, opposition to the repeal of the sales tax, more stringent regulation of the state liquor laws, right of union labor to organize for protective benefits both to labor and industry, conservation of natural resources on both land and sea, fair dealing in business and fair dealing in legislation." These are planks in the platform of Thomas L. McFadden of Anaheim, candidate for state senator, which he presented this morning to a group of friends who complimented him with a breakfast at the Main street cafeteria.

The candidate said he felt qualified to look at Orange county's problem from the standpoint of actual experience, as he was a citrus grower, member of the Orange County Bar Association, business man and a man with fraternal affiliations.

LIONETTES OF ORANGE DON FOOTBALL STOCK CITY LEAGUE HITTERS

Mary Perkins, Phyllis Farquhar, Ruth Lee, Margaret Kinney, Elsie Kokk, Betty Bergen.

Now that the Santa Ana Girls' league has disbanded, these six softball queens have caught on with the Lionettes, a Southern California tournament entry sponsored by the Orange Lions club.

Miss Kokk, a spin-ball specialist who pitched for the Smith-Corona cuties here, currently rates as Orange's first-string twirler, but the girl to watch, they say, is Gertrude Ameling. Miss Perkins, pride of the Green Cats, toiled a few innings of Orange's 17-6 victory over the Dixon Cheviots of Los Angeles two nights ago. Incidentally, the Lionettes are peeved because the Tienan Typists, Santa Ana champions, failed to appear for a practice game at Orange Monday.

Football flashes: A young giant who spent his freshman year at Chicago U. would like to play for the Dons this fall, but he won't be eligible under the transfer rule. . . . and there's an all-star prep from the east whom A. J. (Bill) Cook would like to meet in Tustin. . . . it will be nothing short of a catastrophe if the junior collegians fail to uncover some hard-running backs to go with that formidable forward wall.

Shed no tears for the Dons. They retain a poisonous passing combination, Joe Herbert to Bill Greshner. . . . and they retain that '35 line end-to-end. . . . incoming preps will bolster this talent to keep the Don football fires burning in the Eastern conference.

Cook and his blond assistant, Blanchard Beatty, are hunting in Glenn county with Coach John Ward of Garden Grove, but Little Bill will return here in two weeks to talk nothing except football.

The Woolen Mills, Y. M. C. A. basketball champions, have taken plans to sponsor a basketball team. Reason: Quentin Matzen, manager, can find no suitable diamond in Santa Ana or Orange. The Mills will concentrate on the floor sport again.

Four players in the Santa Ana City league's current championship softball series hit above .400 for the season. Anson (Bob) Mott of Joe's Grocery, .417, and three Commercial Nationals, Hal Youel, .500; Jesse Ojeda, .462; Larry Mitchell, .429.

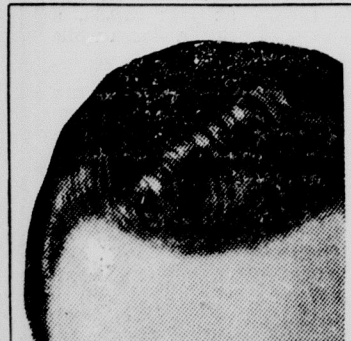

'BULL' MONTANA HERE MONDAY

In all probability "Bull" Montana will referee Monday night's three-fall rematch between Nick Lutz and Howard (Hangman) Cantonwine at the Orange County Athletic club.

Definitely assured that the man who handed down last week's decision against Lutz, Dick Ruthertford, would not be the referee, Lutz has agreed to wrestle Cantonwine to a finish, winner take all.

"I'll not only wrestle him but beat him," said Lutz, "and if he tries any of his hangman stuff on me again this coming week, I'll send him to the hospital."

Lutz informed Promoter Sam Sampson that he had perfected a counter mat maneuver that not only will block the hangman act but will lay Cantonwine low.

Needling two victories in their final four games to assure themselves of the second-half title, Santa Ana's Stars go into the Municipal bowl against the Olive Mohawks at 8:15 tonight.

Westminster plays at Orange, Anaheim at Huntington Beach.

"We'll win the next four," confidently chants George Lackaye, Santa Ana's lanky manager who says Jim Coates will be kept in the box from now on.

Coates was given a three-inning rest in favor of Charley Zaby Tuesday, and the Huntington Beach Oilers set the stage for a 7-4 victory that checked Santa Ana's win streak at 10 games. Olive has not beaten the Stars in the five times they've met this season, and Lackaye hopes to clean sweep the series with Ben Gelker's cellarites.

Manager Gelker, who has had trouble keeping his lineup intact, says he hopes to be at full strength tonight. Jack Dugan, the right-hander who rates with the league's best when he's "hot," will be on the firing line for the Mohawks. It will be Olive's home game, so Santa Ana will swing first.

Mrs. Dorothy Hill Of Diving Fame May Turn Pro

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Dorothy Poynton Hill's second Olympic high-diving championship apparently will launch the blonde Hollywood nymph on a professional career.

"Dorothy has had many professional offers," said her father, Richard E. Poynton, today. "While she hasn't decided definitely on accepting them, you can't blame her for wanting to capitalize on her hard-earned fame."

Husband Nelson L. Hill said he would offer no objections to her diving for gold instead of glory, but he would like to have her home for a while.

Strangler Lewis Puts on Weird Wrestling Waltz

NEW YORK. (AP)—Those of the 500 fans who remained for the finish of the weird wrestling "waltz" Strangler Lewis of Glendale, Calif., and Lee Wycoff, of St. Louis put on at the Hippodrome last night wondered today if the two opponents could qualify for a dancing contest.

With the crowd hooting and stamping almost from the first minute, the two grapplers locked arms behind each other's heads and waltzed around the ring for two hours, without once going to the mat and with only two headlocks by Lewis enlivening the tableaux.

At the end, still locked in their walking embrace, they stumbled simultaneously, fell over the ropes and the press row, and both took the count on their backs in 2 hours, 14 minutes and 45 seconds.

COUNTY BALL OWENS HOLDS HIS BREATH TITLE GOES TO IRVINE

Ernie Lagier Entitled to Enter Tournament in Los Angeles

Perhaps without surprising a single fan, Irvine's all-powerful nightball collection breezed to the Orange County league's 1936 championship by snowing under Anaheim, 14 to 4, on 20 hits at Irvine last night.

The victory clinched both halves of the split-season for Ernie Lagier's club because Placentia, with a remote chance of overtaking Irvine, was penalized with a 9-0 forfeit for failing to appear at San Juan Capistrano. Chet Congdon divided the Blue Goose players, and they had a five-inning game among themselves.

The Sears brothers, Horace and LeRoy—were the big guns in Irvine's attack, along with Clarence (Moose) Hapes. Horace drove out two doubles and two singles in five attempts. LeRoy blasted three singles. Hapes smacked a home run and two doubles.

Irvine, as County league champion, has won the right to compete in the Examiner's Southern California tournament in Los Angeles next month.

The triumph was not as spectacular as it should have been, as Martinez was in bum condition and looked no match for the Fullerton heavyweight.

Lupe will not turn professional as advertised—at least not immediately.

Bernie Pollock of Westminster pleased the crowd last night by deciding colored Leonard Gibbs of Los Angeles, Pollock, fighting awkwardly, still bore in, poured a consistent right to the midsec-

San Diego Creeps Upon Seattle

(By the Associated Press)

After lingering a short while with third-place rivals, San Diego's sensational Padres were gunning today for runner-up position in the Pacific Coast league.

The Padres won a rough-and-tumble game for the San Francisco Missions yesterday, 10-9, and today were only one game removed from the badly-battered Seattle Indians, who dropped their second in a row to last-place Sacramento last night, 7-1.

Portland, current pace setters, stayed 2½ games ahead of the Indians by defeating Oakland, 3-1. The loss forced Oakland into a fourth-place tie with the Missions.

Los Angeles, still striving for a berth in the first division and the right to compete in the Shaughnessy plan playoff, edged out the San Francisco Seals, 4-3, in a gill-edged hurling duel.

Carl Dittmar's single sent home the winning run in Los Angeles, to end an extra-inning hurling duel between Win Ballou of the Seals and Fay Thomas of the Seals.

Dittmar batted in two runs and scored one himself to be the star of the game.

Native game birds in Minnesota are far less plentiful than imported species. Ruffed grouse and prairie chickens have decreased, while the Chinese pheasant and the "Hun" partridge are fairly abundant.

COMMERCIAL GARNERS 13 BINGLES

Lefty Hanson Hit Hard But Wins for Owens; Play Again Monday

Concentrating seven of their eight bingles into three profitable rallies, Joe's Grocers outscored the Commercial National Bank, 8 to 6, to draw first blood in the Santa Ana City league's championship softball series at the Municipal bowl last night.

The second game of the three-out-of-five playoff will be called Monday night.

Thirteen sound hits, including a home run, triple and five doubles, rained off the bats of the Harold Finley-Don Hilliard Bankers but they were unable to gather more than three an inning off Armand (Lefty) Hanson, who traveled the nine-inning route.

Ed Bristow, opening in the box for the Bankers, was the victim of three runs by Joe's Grocery in the first on singles by Dominguez and Mott, a two-bagger by Hapes and an error by Rightfielder Ed Gaebbe.

The Commercial diminished the lead to 3-2, but two walks, two errors and a wild pitch placed Bristow in hot water again in the fifth, when Larry Owens' Grocers countered three times. They gained two more in the sixth on singles by Bob Mott and Joe Ortega and a double by Hurier Hanson.

Doubles by Walt Allen and Gaebbe and a single by Sullivan pushed across three runs for the Commercial in the seventh.

Harvey Hemphill, shortstop, blasted a home run following Red Smith's triple for two runs in the eighth. That was the extent of the scoring on both sides.

Meat Youel, the ex-Trojan, replaced Bristow after the seventh and pitched shutout ball for the two remaining frames. He probably will go to the mound Monday against either Hanson or Mott.

Waite Hoyt Bags 224th Win In 19 Years of Pitching

(By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer)

Tigers, Athletics, Dodgers, Giants and, finally, the Bucs. The only other hurler active in the game today to top his victory record is Lefty Grove.

Indians Dub Tigers

Hoyt's win yesterday didn't help the Pirates at all in their efforts to get back to third place in the National league lead, for the high-flying Giants, who have a firm grip on that spot in the race, also took their game, trouncing the Phillies 6-4.

The triumph boosted the Giants to a slim three games off the pace set by the Cardinals, and only two games back of the second-place clubs, both of whom were idle yesterday, along with the Bees and Dodgers in the National league, and the Yankees, Athletics, Red Sox and Senators in the American.

The Cleveland Indians cut the Yankees' league lead to 11 games by beating the Tigers, 8-0, with Johnny Allen turning in a four-hit pitching job.

The Browns again proved too much for the White Sox, taking a 7-3 decision behind Al Thomas' seven-hit hurling.

Imprisoned Friend Paroled After Plea From Braddock

ANAMOSA, Iowa. (AP)—Johnny McGrath shook off the memory of 25 months in the state reformatory today and turned to that job promised by the friend who got him out—James J. Braddock, the world heavyweight boxing champion.

The state parole board, mainly on the strength of a plea by Braddock, yesterday let McGrath off from the balance of a 10-year sentence he drew for breaking into a Shenandoah, Iowa, cafe to steal a bottle of beer.

Braddock, a friend of McGrath in their New Jersey boyhood, appealed in person to Gov. Clyde L. Herring several months ago and followed up with a letter to the parole board, promising to "employ John McGrath in my publicity department" at no less than $35 a week, and to supervise "his social activities."

The 34-year-old McGrath disclosed he unwittingly started the chain of events leading to freedom when he communicated with Braddock in an effort to prove to the other prisoners that he knew the champ.

"There's one guy," said McGrath, "who wouldn't go back on a pal. I only wrote Jimmy for an autographed picture of himself because the guys laughed at me when I said I knew him."

"Right back comes two pictures and a letter from Jimmy saying he'll help me."

"Jimmy told me he thought I got a bum rap. I think so, too, but I guess it did me good. I'm off liquor now and I got my religion back."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK. (AP)—Unofficial reports say Eleanor Holm Jarrett will turn pro on her return from Berlin and that her first professional appearance will be at the New Jersey state fair opening in Trenton, Sept. 27. . . . Pop Warner has invited 49 candidates for the largest group in Temple football history—to start practice Sept. 1.

All but seven members of the Chicago White Sox are cast-offs; still the team is a second place contender. . . . When Bob Grove lost to New York last week it was the first time the Yankees had defeated him since 1934. . . . Ray Pepper of the Browns is the third American league pinch-hitter to make two hits in an inning this season. . . . President Gerry Nugent promises a drastic shakeup in the Phillies this winter. . . . Nugent, along with many others, is disappointed that the Phils have failed to bid for a first division berth this year.

Johnny Attell, Broadway matchmaker, has turned down an offer to sell the sixth Escobar-Tony Marino featherweight championship bout to Jules Beak, Pittsburgh promoter. . . . The match is scheduled at Dyckman oval here Aug. 31.

Young Gibson White, owner of Rosalind, the Hambleton winner, plans to make a broad mare out of the crack 3-year-old trotter. . . . The Quebe twins of Marquette football fame have made identical grades in the same subjects throughout their stay at Milwaukee.

WASHINGTON COPS TITLE IN ROWING

Final Spurt Edges Out Italians; Germany's Oarsmen Third

BERLIN. (AP)—The United States won the first Olympic basketball championship today, defeating Canada, 19 to 8. The Americans led, 15 to 4, at half time.

Don Hume stroking a beautiful race, followed Italy's pace throughout.

The Huskies were off next to last but always were within striking distance of the leaders.

Hit Up Stroke

Germany challenged Italy several times for the lead but could not move to the front. Finally Washington hit up the stroke from 34 to nearly 40, quickly overhauling the Italians. The Huskies moved out in front 250 meters from the finish but the Italians still had plenty in reserve and put on a fresh spurt that left the Huskies' margin at the finish not much more than a quarter-length.

GRUNAU, Germany. (AP)—Final Olympic rowing summaries:

OLYMPIC BOXING GOES INTO FINALS

BERLIN. (AP)—With 32 boxers, including two Americans, qualified for the semi-finals, the Olympic boxing tournament approached its final stage today.

Four fighters in each of the eight weight classes, survivors of an original field of 186 fisticuffs, took the ring for the final tests to determine the winners of the gold, silver and bronze medals.

America Wins Five

America's representatives, who chalked up five smashing triumphs in the second round, suffered a setback in the quarter-finals yesterday when only two Cleveland boys—Lou Laurie, flyweight and Jackie Wilson, bantamweight—came through with victories.

Although loser of one of the greatest battles of the tournament, Andrew Scrivani, Chicago lightweight, was the hero of the day. The outcome of his fight with Agnir of Sweden might have been different had not the draw matched him with a hard-hitting Belgian puncher in his previous fight. He went into his bout with two bandaged eyes.

Germans Top Field

Laurie and Wilson were favored to come through in their divisions. Both scored convincing victories in the quarter-finals, Wilson wasting neither time or power in knocking his opponent to the canvas.

Argentina and Germany topped the field with representatives in the semi-finals with five each. France and Hungary had three each followed by America. Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Italy and South Africa with two apiece. Finland, Mexico, Poland and Estonia had one fighter still in the running.

Laurie's opponent in the round of four was Mattia of Italy while Wilson encountered Orti of Mexico.

STATE FAIR PREPARES TO OPEN

SACRAMENTO.—More than 1-000 boxes of fruit shipped in by 10 counties for the California State fair in Sacramento, Sept. 5 to 14, today reminded fair officials that the 82-year-old exposition is "just around the corner."

D. Eymann Huff, state fair director of Orange and chairman of the horticulture and agriculture department, is preparing for an outstanding fruit display. The huge agriculture pavilion hums with activity as carpenters, painters and art designers whip new booths and decorations into form.

Canopy in Colors
A canopy in colors of California blue and gold, 375 feet long and 70 feet wide, has just been hung in the agriculture building. Flanking the massive overhead fabric of 20,000 yards are rose colored drapes and flame balcony facings. The dome has been patterned to effect a huge bell, from the center of which hangs a massive chandelier illuminated to accentuate varied colored silks.

The $10,000 decoration program is designed to harmonize with color of various county exhibits.

Room for 1000 Horses
A stepping up program to get ready for California's greatest state fair also is reflected in the plans to create room for more than 1000 horses. Preliminary estimates show that there will be at least 224 trotters, 110 running horses, 300 show horses, 100 polo ponies and 200 draft horses. There are 500 entries in the racing program, the largest racing card in the state fair's history. Last year the total pari-mutuel betting was clocked at $213,035. Of this amount $183,197.60 went to winners.

Approximately 30 counties will exhibit.

TRANSFUSIONS SAVE NIMROD

SALT LAKE CITY, (AP)—A 14-mile journey by stretcher and 80 miles in a truck, with an in-between delay for a blood transfusion, brought Lee N. Taylor from a remote mountain fishing camp to a hospital here today.

Taylor, stricken by stomach hemorrhages while fishing at Rainbow Lake, southeast of here, was carried by his companions on an improvised stretcher 14 miles to a forest ranger's cabin.

A transfusion was performed there by a physician summoned from Salt Lake City, with Willis Groves, like Taylor a radio technician, as the blood donor.

The patient survived, in a hospital here today, was "doing fairly well."

MORE ABOUT PIO PICO

Antonio Yorba (the alcalde of Santa Ana Abajo, born in California in 1785) which is about one and a half leagues distant from the house of Teodosio.

"The next day I continued on to San Juan Capistrano, where I arrived about sunset or a little later. Don Ignacio, if I remember correctly, returned to Los Angeles from Santa Ana.

Hide for Eight Days
"I remained hidden in San Juan for about eight days. Being one day in my room, there passed by Don Juan Bandini, accompanied by Capt. Santiago Emilio Arguello (traitors to the Californians who were looking for Governor Pico's hiding place unsuccessfully) who were lodged in Don Juan Forster's dwelling—which was where I was too, but hidden.

"Don Juan Forster and these other two gentlemen passed by in the corridor in front of my room. Arguello and Bandini asked Forster where I could be, since they desired to meet me and to persuade me that I should not go forth from my country and abandon my family.

"All of this I heard from my room. I should add that Bandini and Arguello were by this time allied to the American forces.

Declined "Passport"
"On departing for Los Angeles the following day, they offered

Forster to secure me a safe-conduct pass from Fremont in order that neither myself nor my staff should be molested. They fulfilled their promise and Forster showed me the safe-conduct, signed by Fremont.

"I did not consider myself authorized to accept such an arrangement and accordingly retired to the backcountry into the hills at a distance of two leagues (Gov. Pico is believed to have remained secreted in Don Juan Forster's adobe house at Mission Vieja at this time). There I remained for several days, eating with a vecino who brought me provisions.

"From there I went to a place near my rancho of Santa Margarita. There I took the chance of gathering 40 or 50 mules and 25 or 30 horses, which were under the charge of three servants, Benigno Contreras, Ramon Adarga, and the third who bore the nickname of "El Fraile" and was a Sonoran.

"One day, at sunset, I had a longing to return to San Juan Capistrano to Don Juan Forster's house in order to see my sister, his wife, and to obtain news from Los Angeles. Benigno Contreras accompanied me, and on the following day Ramon Adarga came to San Juan to tell me that Captain Santiago E. Arguello had come with a force of 25 Americans and had taken all the horses and mules which I had gathered to continue my march to Sonora.

Back to Capistrano
"On the night of that day I returned to the place where I had gathered the cavalcade and from there went the same night to my rancho house of Santa Margarita. Remaining there hidden various days, I managed to gather another cavalcade to effect my departure from Alta, California.

"Matias Moreno, the secretary of state, remained in San Diego in complete accord with me in order to take up the march to the frontier of Baja California.

"The seventh of October I left Santa Margarita and he effected his departure from San Diego, so that we met at the place called San Jorge at about 3 or 4 o'clock of the afternoon. There also joined me my nephew, Alejandro Carrillo. Together we took the road that led to Baja California.

Met at San Jorge
"The reason for my having taken up the journey (to Sonora) by this route was that the departmental assembly and some people of great influence in Los Angeles had counseled me that I should endeavor not to meet General Jose Castro on the way. They observed to me that he, fearful lest I should report him to the supreme government, might make an attempt against my life. (General Castro, military commander of Alta California, had deserted his post in defense of Los Angeles, thus leaving the capital in the defenseless state which obliged its evacuation by the governor. Castro had fled overland through the San Geronimo pass toward Sonora.)

Pursued by Troops
"On our reaching San Vicente (Pueblo ex-Mission San Vicente Ferrer, about 120 miles below Tijuana in Baja California) there joined us the Ensign of Cavalry Macedonio Gomez, and for two or three days we continued on, because my sister, Mrs. Forster, had sent an Indian to tell me that Santiago Arguello had set out in pursuit of me with a force of troops."

Thus did Governor Pio Pico leave San Juan Capistrano and his native Alta California to spend many weary months—even years—in western Mexico, endeavoring by all possible means to get munitions and troops with which to succor his valiant countrymen in their desperate fight to preserve the independence of their native land.

Failure Not His Fault
That he failed, since the supreme government needed every available troop and munition supply to defend the very capital of the republic itself, was no fault of his, nor of his hard-pressed compatriots who, under their new civil and military governor pro-tem, Captain Jose Maria Flores, fought bitterly to the end.

With Pico's departure, however, did not end the stirring history of Mexican war days in San Juan Capistrano, for there were marches and countermarches, proclamations and captures of the old pueblo by both sides time and time again; but these form a different story, taking place some time after the episode of Governor Pico's concealment in the sleepy mission town—just 90 years ago today.

AQUEDUCT IS NEARLY HALF COMPLETED

Army of 8000 Men Rush Work on Giant Line for MWD Water

Engineering reports out of remote mountain and desert camps, where an army of 8000 men is toiling along far flung construction lines totaling 629 miles in length, today revealed that the Metropolitan water district aqueduct is nearly half completed.

The exact figures indicated that the great job, in all of its phases, is 46 per cent finished. These reports are flashed daily to the Los Angeles office of General Manager R. E. Weymouth of the water district. They come over the district's own 1273 circuit miles of telephone system from six division headquarters and the aqueduct field headquarters at Banning. These telephone lines extend to every section of the big job and give access to some 30 camps and construction centers.

Tremendous Strides
Since preliminary work was launched late in December, 1932, tremendous strides have been made by the construction crews, it was revealed. The district's progress reports today indicated the status of construction to be as follows:

Of the 103 miles of hard-rock tunnels, 50 miles have been excavated and 54 miles concrete lined and completed.

Of the 63 miles of lined canals, 53 miles have been constructed.

Rush Dam Work
Of the 55 miles of covered conduit, 30 miles have been constructed.

Of the 28 miles of siphons, 20 miles have been constructed.

Work on construction of the mammoth earth-fill dam and dike that will form Cajalco reservoir, ten miles south of Riverside, is 41 per cent completed.

On the Colorado river, construction of Parker dam, behind which the aqueduct will have its intake, is well under way with the two 29-foot diversion tunnels scheduled to be completely lined within the next few days.

Busy on Power Lines
On the 130 miles of distributing lines, exclusive of the tunnels, work is in progress on 41 miles. Construction of the 237-mile power transmission line that will deliver electric energy from Boulder dam to the five pumping stations on the aqueduct is now 46 per cent completed.

Cities comprising the Metropolitan water district include Anaheim, Fullerton and Santa Ana.

The Story of Our Missions

Twenty-one Franciscan missions were founded in California by the Rev. Fray Junipero Serra, extending from San Diego to what is now Sonoma county. They are among California's priceless landmarks. The state department of public works has prepared brief histories of them with directions on how to reach them. They will be taken up in the order of their locations from south to north, rather than in the sequence of their founding. The fifteenth installment, telling the story of how Father Serra founded Mission San Juan Bautista, follows:

MISSION SAN JUAN BAUTISTA

Founded June 24, 1797

On a spot called Popeloutchom by the Indians and San Benito by the Spaniards, the superior of the missions, Fr. Presidente Fermín Francisco de Lasuen, on June 24, 1797, founded Mission San Juan Bautista, dedicating it to the Glorious Precursor of Jesus Christ, Our Lord, Saint John, the Baptist.

The site selected was a place near the Rio San Benito, so named by Captain Pedro Fages when he camped there on March 21, 1772, with Fr. Juan Crespi, that infatigable discoverer of mission locations.

Until Feb. 12, 1874, Mission San Juan Bautista was in what now is Monterey county, but on that date Governor Booth signed the legislative bill creating San Benito county, which was carved out of Monterey, and the mission town became a part of the new subdivision.

Building operations at San Juan Bautista were launched immediately after the dedication ceremonies by Fr. Joseph Manuel de Mariategui and Fr. Pedro Adriano Martinez, the first resident missionaries. By the end of 1797, the padres reported the erection of a chapel, a dwelling for the priests, a granary, adobe habitations for Indian neophytes, a guardhouse and barracks for the soldiers and a building for unmarried Indian girls and women.

Established "Nunnery"
The apartment occupied by the native girls was called monjerio (nunnery) and the inmates on account of their segregation were considered monjas (nuns). Fr. Engelhardt, mission historian, says they were free to marry when an opportunity offered itself. When an Indian wanted a wife he would apply to the padre, who would ask him the name of his intended. The girl thereupon would be summoned by the priest and if she agreed, preparations for the wedding in accord with church regulations would be made. After their marriage the couple would be assigned a house of their own and thereafter would enjoy the liberty and independence of fulfilled members of the Indian community.

Before the coming of the padres it was the custom for an Indian youth to select the girl he wished to marry and give presents to her father. Acceptance of these gifts sealed the marriage of the two without any other ceremony.

The San Juan Bautista missionaries were industrious builders as their annual reports reveal. Some of their work was undone by an earthquake in October, 1800, but repairs were made and increased building activities undertaken. On June 13, 1803, the cornerstone of the new church was laid with impressive ceremonies. Fr. Martiarena retired to Mexico and was succeeded by Fr. Andres Dulanto in 1804.

Boasted Three Naves

Fr. Dulanto in 1809 reported that "on June 3rd the statue of Our Patron San Juan Bautista was placed on the main altar of the church, which serves as a temporary church. The three naves of the temple of Mission San Juan Bautista were also completed this year."

Of all the California missions, San Juan Bautista was the only one that boasted three naves and was the widest of all mission churches.

On June 23, 1812, the house of worship was completed after 15 years of labor by the padres and their Indians and was blessed by Fr. Estevan Tapis, then president of the missions.

In 1815 and 1816 many Indians of the warlike Tulares who had been induced to come to the mission ran away and subsequently raided San Juan Bautista numerous times, murdering several neophytes. These periodic attacks upon the mission continued long after American occupation in 1847.

Following the Mexican revolt against Spain, 1810-11, the missions in California received no support from Mexico and the pay of the military in the territory having ceased for the same reason, the Franciscan missionaries and their Indian wards were compelled to provide the soldiers with food, clothing and money. San Juan Bautista contributed heavily.

Baptize 359 in Year

However, Fr. Tapis and Fr. De la Cuesta continued to win converts at San Juan Bautista and in December, 1821, reported they had baptized 359 Indians during the year. The following year they counted 267 converts. By 1823 the Indian population consisted of 641 male and 607 female neophytes and 22 addition adobe dwellings had to be built for the newcomers.

In October, 1825, Jose M. Echandia, the first native Mexican governor of California, arrived at San Diego. He at once set in motion the political machinery that was to bring about the ruin of all the missions. Fr. Tapis, who had done so much to build up San Juan Bautista, died there Nov. 3 of that same year so that he did not live to see the wrecking of the Franciscan missionary stations.

One of Governor Echandia's first acts was to issue a proclamation on Jan. 1, 1826, requiring all missions, as a "New Year gift," to pay 10 per cent of their income for the benefit of the "well-deserving troops who conserve the peace of the territory. This began the impoverishment of the missions by the military.

In the summer of 1826, Fr. De la Cuesta, alone at San Juan Bautista with the care of 1200 Indians upon his shoulders, wrote to Jose M. Herrera, collector of customs at Monterey:

Protested Burdens
"I see your application for supplies of all kinds in behalf of the troops. Some of the articles are not on hand. There are difficulties all around, and I am overburdened with cares which render life wearisome. There is hardly any of the religious in me, and I scarcely know what to do in these troublous times. I made the vows of a friar minor; instead, I must raise sheep, horses and cows. I must preach, baptize, bury the dead, visit the sick, direct the carts, haul stones, lime, etc. These are things incompatible, thorny, bitter hard, unbearable. They rob me of time, tranquility and health of both body and soul. I desire with lively anxiety to devote myself to my sacred ministry and to serve the Lord."

For many years there has been a tradition that mission San Juan Bautista was founded with the aid of a barrel organ, the music of which attracted the Indians to the station on the day of dedication in 1797. The story is that when the natives first heard the organ, they fell down in fear, then gradually gathered about the singing box with delight. It is a charming tale and it seems a pity it cannot be sustained by old mission records. However, Fr. Engelhardt, mission historian, felt impelled to quote a report made by Fr. De la Cuesta at the end of 1829 in which the padre notes that the mission had been presented with a barrel organ that had been made in London. Fr. Engelhardt believes the "music box" was donated to the fathers at Monterey by some English skipper. One tune that the Indians liked was unknown to the padres. It was not until years later that its name was learned. It was "The Siren's Waltz."

Mission Was Wealthy

Fr. De la Cuesta's last report was dated Dec. 31, 1832. There were at the mission 529 male and 396 female Indians. The station owned 6000 head of cattle, 6004 sheep, 20 pigs, 12 mules and 296 horses.

In 1833 the College of San Fernando de Mexico turned over to the College of Guadalupe Zacatecas the 10 California missions from San Antonio de Padua to San Francisco Solano in what now is Sonoma county, and the Mexican padre, Fr. Antonio Anzar, succeeded aged Fr. De la Cuesta at San Juan Bautista, the latter retiring to Mission San Miguel.

Youthful California politicians joined with Echandia and Jose M. Padres in plans to confiscate the missions and on July 15, 1834, the then Governor Jose Figueroa issued his proclamation secularizing the missions. Historian H. H. Bancroft says that Figueroa tricked the missions as he knew that he and his legislature had no authority to issue such a decree without the sanction of the Mexican government. Indeed, the action was repudiated by the government of Mexico on Nov. 7, 1835.

Nevertheless, Figueroa and the young Californians proceeded with their scheme and Mission San Juan Bautista became a curacy of the second class under a civil administrator.

Valuation $138,723
On May 9, 1835, Commissioners Antonio Buelna and Jose T. Castro filed an inventory taken at San Juan Bautista and placed a valuation of $138,723.37 upon the mission and its property. The Indians were proclaimed to be "free," they were given shares of land and some money and equipment and were expected to support themselves under the supervision of a paid mayordomo.

However, the Indians were helpless to do for themselves and gradually began withdrawing to the country of the Tulares where they could, in the free, earn their living. Says that "while at the end of 1836 the mission estate had still about 600 cattle and 4000 sheep, with a crop of 900 bushels, and a debt of $1,300, there were no traces of a community. Constant depredations by savages, aided by ex-neophytes, from 1837 on contributed to the work of ruin."

"This," says Fr. Engelhardt, "a flourishing Indian mission headed by an unsalaried missionary was, under secular management, ruined in less than two years."

Settlement of Whites
In place of the Indian mission village a little settlement of whites came into existence near the church of San Juan Bautista, which by the end of 1839 numbered some 50 inhabitants. The new pueblo became the town of San Juan Bautista the history of which is one of romance, stirring pioneer days and much bloodshed. During the 50's there occurred a number of lynchings by a vigilante's committee and such famous bandits as Joaquin Murietta, "Three-Fingered Jack," Vasquez and Chavez frequented there, the two latter committing many raids and a number of murders.

Through all these turbulent times, kindly padres lived at the mission, as they do today, ministering to the religious needs of the community.

In 1842, Governor Manuel Micheltorena returned San Juan Bautista, as well as the other missions, to the Franciscans, but the act brought about his overthrow by Pio Pico and other enemies of the missions.

Pico Gets Busy
In September, 1845, Governor Pico appointed his brother, Andres, and Juan M. Manso as commissioners to make mission inventories preparatory to sale of the missionary stations at public auction. The two placed a valuation of $7,860 upon San Juan Bautista, its lands and other properties. In May of the next year, Pico began disposing of the mission lands.

Following the raising of the American flag at Monterey, U. S. Army officers set about protecting the missions and establishing their rightful ownership. In March, 1847, General Stephen W. Kearny, American military governor, issued an order in which he said that "inasmuch as there are various claimants to the missions of San Jose, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and San Juan Bautista, I do hereby decree that until the proper judicial tribunals shall decide upon the same, the above named missions and property appertaining thereto shall remain under the charge of the Catholic priests, as they were when the United States flag was raised in this territory."

On Nov. 19, 1850, President James Buchanan returned San Juan Bautista mission to the church. From the day of its founding, San Juan Bautista never lacked a spiritual guide or pastor.

Kept Choir Sober
Fr. Francis Mora became resident missionary at the mission in June, 1856, and Fr. Engelhardt tells an interesting story handed down by the young priest. It seems that the Indians who composed the choir at San Juan Bautista found they could not keep sober on Saturday nights, due to the widespread distribution of the white man's whisky, and consequently were in no condition to sing at high masses on Sunday. So one Saturday they went to the priest and inquired: "Padre, do you want to have a high mass tomorrow you will have to look us up, for we cannot keep sober."

The astonished padre agreed, told them to get their supper and return to the guardhouse with their blankets. He locked them in for the night. This practice was followed with the consent and approval of the Indian choir singers for years.

Fr. Antonio Ubach, who succeeded Fr. Mora, in 1861 induced some Sisters of Charity of Emmitsburg, Md., to establish an orphanage and day school at the mission. In 1871 the sisters and orphans moved to the orphanage at Santa Cruz. In the same year, six sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, newly arrived from Spain, arrived at San Juan Bautista, two school buildings were erected for them and they conducted a school for orphaned girls until 1906. The earthquake of that year did considerable damage to the church and orphanage.

Fiestas Raise Funds
The first of a number of fiestas to raise funds for restoration of the mission was held at San Juan Bautista on June 24, 1907, to commemorate the 110th anniversary of its founding. A huge cross was raised on Mount Holy Cross, two miles from the mission, and blessed. On June 19-20, 1936, a similar celebration in honor of the 139th anniversary of San Juan Bautista was held.

In August, 1928, the mission was placed in the hands of the Maryknoll Fathers whose resident missionaries have done much to restore and maintain this old Franciscan station.

San Juan Bautista, 16 miles north of Salinas, and formerly on the old Coast highway, El Camino Real, U. S. 101, now is about two and a half miles off the realigned Coast highway and is reached over an excellent connecting road built by the state highway commission at the solicitation of Father Caffrey of the mission. Elimination of San Juan grade by construction of the Prunedale cut-off took the mission off the main traveled route, but the new connecting road makes it easy for motorists from northern or southern points to turn off for the short run to San Juan Bautista.

Visitors coming from the San Joaquin valley will turn west at either Chowchilla or Califa and proceed through Los Banos a distance of 73 miles over state route 124 to its intersection with state route 22, hence south eight miles to Hollister and west eight miles to San Juan Bautista.

By I. N. (BRICK) GAINES

THAT LYIN' SCOTSMAN! Here I've been spending my time telling folks what nice guy he is, and he ups and proclaims, loudly, from Newport's most prominent street corner, that I'm a champion Tomcod fisherman.

Which is an insult. The lowly Tomcod is frowned upon by polite society. He abounds upon the ocean bottom, and when caught is cast from the angler with expressions of disgust, such as "Hmph, another Pasadena halibut!" Or even just "Humph!"

From which you can get the idea that the deep water fish isn't so popular. However, the Lyin' Scotsman to the contrary, Ole Man Tomcod is edible. He's sold as "Kingfish" on the markets and is popular in many homes. So I'd better tell you how to cook him the next time you go yellowtail angling and bring home nothing but good old Thomas from the depths.

In the first place, the Kingfish is "A small, brownish colored fish, abundant in Southern California waters, and an excellent food. It is seldom over one-quarter of a pound in weight and eight to ten inches in length." That's what the division of fish and game says about our finny friend.

And, from the following recipes, you'll notice that the originators go to some lengths to disguise the critter. Take, for instance, "Kingfish Argentine".

Put two Kingfish on a buttered platter or pan, season with salt and pepper, add a glass of white wine, and bake. Cover with Creole sauce and serve. If you can find anyone to serve.

Notice? There're so many other things named that the consumer won't be able to taste the fish. Next comes a tasty little dish called "Ubsala," whatever that means. Again, you'll notice that the culinary inventor throws up a protective fence of other vittles to keep the diner as far away as possible from Uncle Tomcod. Thusly:

Put four cleaned Kingfish on a buttered pan, season with salt and pepper, add one-half glass of white wine and one-half cupful of fish stock, bullion or water, and bake. Place the fish on a platter, add one point of white wine sauce to the juice of the fish in the pan, and reduce by boiling to the thickness of a good sauce. Strain over the fish. Garnish with fleurons.

I also have some good recipes for baked boot (serves four) and scalloped door hinges. Either on request.

But, all foolishness aside, if you want to know how to cook anything from prawns to micellans, just drop this department a hint, even a small one, and I'll go into my act. I can oblige with potted carp, fried eels, all sorts of finnan haddie, skate au beurre noir, Creole (gettin' educated, see?) Italian style smelt, or baked whitefish St. Menchoud. Yeah, and I even have a little skit called "Mackerel Bouillabaisse" and other, baked squid. Name your poison!

Speaking of our finny friends, Judge E. J. Marks, who presides over the fourth district court of appeals when he isn't on vacation, has his own recipe for bringing home enough fish to eat. I caught him at it yesterday.

The judge solemnly walked into a fish market and ordered a couple of pounds of the best. Which, he explained afterward, is the least expensive and troublesome method of obtaining the meat dish for the judgely meal.

Which brings to a close our lecture on beasts of the field and stream. We'll now consider Bill Hart and Hervey Nichols and the Orange Rotary club. No offense meant, either. I'm not classing that group with fish!

Yesterday Bill spoke effusively about the small town press, which means all of us, as compared to the metropolitan type of the disease. And he patted Friend Frank Rospaw on the back as being an ideal representative of the Fourth Estate, or something.

Chairman Nichols ran the club meeting with a high hand, assessing numerous huge fines on members because of birthdays. Pleas for mercy were unheard, and the uproar was terrific.

It was only when the meeting was almost over that someone discovered that it was Hervey's birthday, too. And I'm not so sure that he paid up. An investigation seems warranted.

BACK FROM NORTH GARDEN GROVE.—Mrs. Carl Nichols and daughter, Nancy, have returned from Palo Alto, where Mrs. Nichols attended the summer session at Stanford university.

VISIT IN OKLAHOMA GARDEN GROVE.—Mrs. Henry Morgan and son, Henry Lee, have gone to Oklahoma where for the next six weeks they will visit friends and relatives.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—This beach community will be jammed with motorcycle riders from all Southern California and many other states Sept. 5, 6 and 7, when the annual national convention of the American Motorcycle association will be held, chamber of commerce officials announced today. A complete program for the huge three-day affair is being worked out by chamber officials and will be announced soon.

Residents of Huntington Beach as well as hotels and rooming houses were asked today to file all available rooming space with the chamber of commerce in order that the big crowd expected at the convention could be accommodated.

The Motorcycle association has headquarters in Los Angeles. Many of the leading riders of the United States will be here to attend the affair and take part in races, stunt riding contests and other events planned for the three days, it was announced.

He added that in all probability the total for the first eight months this year will top the best record in Laguna's building history, for a year's building, set in the boom year of 1928 when the total was $534,675.

Plans and specifications for the new Levinson home in the fashionable Victoria Drive district were drawn by Aubrey St. Clair, local architect. POTATO-PEELER GETS CHANCE

The army can use 10 men with an advanced knowledge of potato-peeling.

These men will serve as cooks in the air corps, medical department, and quartermaster corps in the Philippine islands, according to information from the army recruiting station in Long Beach.

But that isn't all. Other vacancies are to be filled in other lines in the Philippines, Hawaii, and right here at home.

The air corps in the Philippines, for instance, can use aero engine mechanics, machinists, radio operators, auto mechanics, clerks, carpenters, buglers and airplane mechanics. The medical department there wants clerks, cooks and surgical technicians. The quartermaster corps needs clerks, and auto mechanics.

Vacancies in Hawaii are in infantry, coast artillery, and engineer corps. Fort MacArthur and March Field have 40 vacancies each. Age limits are 18 to 35 years.

SMALL POTATO CROP FEARED

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The smallest potato crop ever recorded was predicted this week by the agriculture department.

In its statement on crop conditions Aug. 1, the department's reporting board said the prospect was for a 294,537,000-bushel harvest, 7 per cent less than last year. It compared with a five-year average of 372,115,000 bushels.

"The late potato crop is in a critical condition," the report said. "A continuation of the drought would result in very light yields in most commercially important sections from western New York to the Dakotas, but timely rainfall during August would probably result in a general benefit to the crop in most areas."

GIRL DEEDED TO 79-YEAR OLD MAN

BOSTON, (AP)—Charles H. Davis, 79, who claimed a 22-year-old woman with whom he was arrested in his home here last night was "deeded" to him, went to jail for three months.

Judge Albert Hayden, who sentenced him, committed the girl, Miss Bertha McLeod, to the psychopathic hospital.

Police reported they found Davis, former theatrical scenery painter, and the girl living together. They arrested them just after Davis said he had obtained a license to marry Miss McLeod.

Both the woman and Davis declared their love for each other today—and she nodded affirmation as Davis told police of the "deed" by which he said her father, John D. McLeod, gave her to him four years ago "to adopt or to marry."

FRANCHISE ON HOTPOINT IN NEW HANDS

Baker and Graiewski Open Sales Office Here Tomorrow

Two former Southern California Edison company employees, R. D. Baker and E. B. Graiewski, have secured the complete Hotpoint line under franchise for Santa Ana and will open their new business tomorrow at 213 North Broadway in the Santora building.

Both men have been in Orange county for a number of years and have extensive records in sales, according to Major Anderson, representative of the General Electric Supply corporation, who said his company was pleased to entrust the Hotpoint franchise to men so well grounded in electrical sales and service. The franchise includes Hotpoint refrigerators, ranges and water heaters, General Electric radio, washers and ironers as well as the complete line of Hotpoint heating devices and small appliances.

The store will be in charge of a store manager, Dan Wilcox, both Baker and Graiewski devoting their entire time to outside sales. They expect to employ a crew of six sales specialists and have arranged to operate the radio department under the supervision of Bill Merrill, a trained radio technician.

Hotpoint range sales have passed all previous records, according to Baker, and he expressed himself as well pleased that he and his associate had secured the Hotpoint franchise early enough in the season to take full advantage of the late summer refrigerator business and the fall range campaign, which promises to be the largest in the history of the industry. Graiewski, who is a navy trained technician as well as a successful salesman, has a host of friends throughout Orange county. His sales record speaks for itself, according to Anderson.

The new store will be kept open evenings during the balance of the summer.

BEER ADS ARE UNDER FIRE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal trade commission issued a complaint charging four California corporations with violation of the federal trade commission act by representing their beer as "superior to other beer products because it is made under a non-fattening formula and lacks properties for producing or otherwise bringing about increase in body fat and weight."

Corporations named in the complaint were the Cereal Products Refining Corp., San Francisco, and Acme Brewing Co., Los Angeles, and their selling and distributing agents, Bohemian Distributing Co., Ltd., Los Angeles, and California Brewing Association, San Francisco.

The complaint charged that all beer, "cannot be truthfully represented as non-fattening for all people and without properties for inducing increase in weight, unless consideration is given to the individual dietary habits, physiological idiosyncrasies and fat-producing tendencies of beer consumers."

Federal Government Takes Hand in Pacific Mutual

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The United States government has taken a hand in the tangled financial affairs of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of California.

Eugene Harpole, special counsel for the treasury department, assigned to the bureau of internal revenue, appeared before Superior Judge Henry M. Willis and requested that all papers and motions in the case be turned over to his office.

The attorney made no comment as to the purpose in asking for the documents.

Judge Willis asked Deputy State Attorney General John J. Flynn to comply with the government attorney's request, and Flynn said he would.

Meanwhile, a hearing was held in court this week on an order to show cause why the assets of the company, recently declared insolvent, should not be transferred to a newly organized company. The order was made early in July by Superior Judge Douglas L. Edmonds, who appointed Samuel L. Carpenter, Jr., state insurance commissioner, as conservator and liquidator for the old company.

Objections were raised by various policyholders in suits filed to stay the action by Judge Edmonds, the plaintiffs raising the question that Judge Edmonds was a policyholder and therefore disqualified from acting.

Judge Willis said that inasmuch as this objection had been raised and that it was a technical point that might result in legal complications, that he had decided to start a new hearing on the question of the appointment of Carpenter as conservator and liquidator and that the entire Pacific Mutual case will take on the status of just starting.

"My purpose," Judge Willis said, "is to remove any technical objections to the proper procedure and to give every person interested—policyholder, stockholder and creditor—every reasonable right to protect his interests in setting the affairs of this company."

The judge said Carpenter was "in complete accord" with him in starting the case over. He said his action was technical and that Carpenter shall remain as conservator and liquidator until such time as the court decides whether the law justifies his permanent appointment and transfer of assets of the old company to the new.

but because we realized the importance of defeating the Red menace," he added.

Rodriguez listed most of labor in Mexico on the side of the Gold Shirts.

He said he would make no attempt to contact political exiles while in the United States.

The statement was made in answer to a question as to whether he would attempt to form a coalition between Fascists and sympathizers of General Plutarco Elias Calles.

"The interests of General Calles and myself lie among different courses," said General Rodriguez. "I will make no attempt to contact political exiles while in the United States. I shall remain away from my country until Communism is stamped out."

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: Inspector Hylton was hot on the trail of Dale Shipley, whom he believes murdered old Arthur Burdett, the miser, when Nancy Featherstone locked him up in a strong room—and kept him there. Meanwhile Dale is in London, and Hylton's helper, Sergeant White, is wondering where his superior officer could be. White's wife, Alice, however, is only worried about the wifery—about her husband—for she is having a rendezvous with a gamekeeper, deep in the forest.

Sergeant White made a leisureed journey down to the Hoops after his dinner. He was a trifle annoyed with the Inspector for not keeping the appointment of the morning but, no doubt (he reflected) his superior officer, who seemed quite a decent sort of a chap as far as he went, had some good reason for it.

The Hoops was officially closed when he got there, but Edward Perry came to the back door quickly enough when he saw who was standing in the yard.

"Haven't seen Mr. Hylton since about ten or half past this morning when he came back from Morechester in the car. I've got his lunch waiting for him still."

"Did he say he'd be back for lunch?"

"Yes. Very particular about it. A bit of pork-pie and some pickles he fancied—it's all ready for him now."

"He didn't say where he was going?"

"Not a word. Off he went in that quick way of his, shouting out about the lunch over his shoulder."

Sergeant White nodded. "I expect he's got on to something that's keeping him longer than he thought," he said.

"I daresay. Wonderful quick chaps these Scotland Yard men," Perry opined, hastening to eaver up what might seem to be somewhat of a gaffe by adding, "Not as what we aren't satisfied with the locals round about here, all right. Jimmy, unofficially, how's it getting on? Are you after anybody particular?"

"Well, I'm not in charge of the case, but I think the Inspector's got his eye on one or two."

Perry recognized the practised hand of diplomacy and respected it. "Shall I tell him you were asking for him when he comes back?" he asked.

"You might say I was down this morning. I daresay I'll be back again about tea time, he's sure to be here by then."

The Sergeant nodded and walked out of the yard. Edward Perry, arms akimbo (his favorite position) watched him go reflectively. . . . run sort of chap to be in the force (he reckoned) different from all the other country sergeants he had ever known, cut above them somehow, you could imagine him being solicitor or something of that almost . . . but over and above that there was something queer about the Sergeant, you never knew when you had him exactly, a bit of a deep 'un somehow.

After he had seen the woman and the man James White stood stock still for a full minute. The air was quiet; he could hear the woman's voice and could hear her laugh, Alice's rich untrammelled

Sergeant White stood undecided for a moment in the Square of Hope Enderton. It was busy with the ebb and flow of Saturday afternoon life.

The half timbered fronts and bowed windows of the shops, the market stalls clustered in the center, the country carts, the very scavenging dogs were all part of a scene so familiar to the man that you might have thought he could look at it without seeing it almost; and yet on that bright January afternoon it seemed to him that all the details of it stood out in unwonted clearness.

Life (James White thought), merchandise and marketing; eating and drinking; loving and giving in love. He turned and walked slowly up the street. A variety of jobs offered themselves to him that afternoon; it wouldn't be a bad idea to go over to Punt and look up the constable there, a slack sort of man who wanted a lot of supervision; or there was the house he had to go to Morechester (only just inside his boundary) where he was pretty sure three dogs were being kept without any licenses.

But White felt disinclined for work of any sort. He left the village behind him and scrambling up the high bank cut across a newly sown field and so gained a footpath that led to one of his favorite walks. He wanted to get away from men and to be alone with his thoughts a little, he was a great man for being alone with his thoughts.

James White often thought it would have been better for him if his father who was born in a humble station of life had stayed there and had not suddenly acquired what was for him a small fortune. Most of the small fortune had been unselfishly spent in sending White to an expensive school, his father being determined that his son should have what he himself had lacked—education.

James White got his education, more than an average share of it perhaps, for his brain was a quick one; but he got precious little else.

The war came as a relief to him. After the war he was for a time at a loose end; then he enlisted in the regular police force in England.

Then, in one year, he got his promotion to Sergeant, which did not much surprise him; and he met Alice Cooper, who did.

James White was not inexperienced when he married Alice but very nearly so. All the intense concentration on his own affairs which had grown to be such a habit with him now suddenly included another human being. He had always been inclined to tell the rest of the world it could go to hell; it could go to hell in due time now, so long as it left him and his Alice alone.

After he had seen the woman and the man James White stood stock still for a full minute. The air was quiet; he could hear the woman's voice and could hear her laugh, Alice's rich untrammelled laugh, vibrant with life and delight. . . .

To turned and went back into the wood. Though he wasn't aware of it he went back to Enderton by exactly the same roundabout route he had taken from the village. When he got back the sun had set. The police cottage was empty, he let himself into the kitchen and sat in one of the hard wooden chairs staring at his hands on the enamel-topped table . . . giving himself to him . . . when he heard a light footstep outside in the now last-falling darkness he got up and pretended to busy himself with some crockery on a shelf, keeping his back to the door.

He turned and went back into them, and a shaking hand was unusual for the Sergeant. His life was rather like the shaking cups, he thought—one moment outwardly quiet, the next in a fair way to be shattered.

WOMEN (AP)—The Soviet government has reduced the age limit for the start of compulsory military service in the Red army from 21 to 19 years.

The brief official announcement contained no mention of any danger of war. It stated the government believed earlier training would make for the general physical development of Soviet youth and enable them to complete their military service earlier and take up civil pursuits.

The move will permit large increases in the standing army and the reserve. It will call to the colors the first youths ever born under the Soviet flag.

Last January the Soviet government said it had been "obliged" to increase the standing army to 1,300,000 men because Germany and Japan were increasing the size of their military establishments. The standing army does not include the reservists.

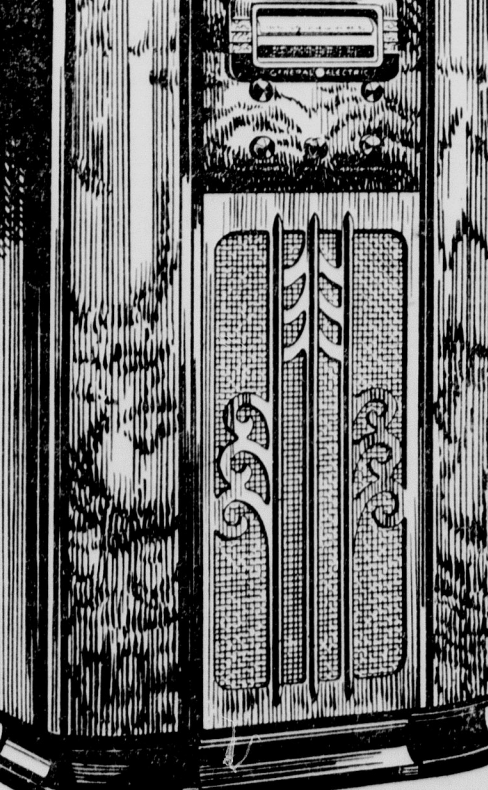

Kin of First Governor Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A man who died in county hospital was identified tentatively as James Santiago Arguello, 58, descendant of California's first Mexican governor.

W. S. Clayton, San Jose bank president, identified the dead man as a member of the early Arguello family. Louis A. Arguello governed California from 1823 to 1825.

LANDON TO REST ON RANCH

G. O. P. Nominee at Estes Park Before Starting Campaign Tour

By O. A. MARTIN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

ESTES PARK, Colo. — Gov. Alf M. Landon, determined to be in tip-top condition for his first presidential campaign tour starting in a week, relaxed today and visited with his family at their Colorado Rocky mountain ranch. Although the Republican nominee said he planned to do some fishing and horseback riding after "resting a day or two," his first few hours at nearby McGraw ranch, where the family has been spending the summer, were devoted to romps with his two small children.

Romps With Son
The youngsters, 4-year-old Nancy Jo and 2-year-old John Cobb, ran ahead of their mother to meet the Governor when his car drove up yesterday. It was the first time they had seen him since early in June, when he returned to Topeka from a 10-day vacation at the ranch.

Taking him by the hand, they insisted on showing the nominee toys on their playground and a new pony acquired since his last visit.

To Write Speeches

The governor's immediate desire was to rid himself of a slight cold he contracted last week. He described himself upon his arrival as "feeling much better."

Reluctantly leaving a blazing fireplace, the governor retired early last night—under blankets, for the weather was cool.

Before starting his campaign expedition into the east Aug. 20, the candidate said he expected to complete speeches he will deliver. Reaching Denver from Topeka yesterday, Landon drove to Estes Park by way of Boulder, where he made two stops—one on the Colorado university campus and another in front of the courthouse to wave at students and townsfolk who cheered him.

The nominee said no visitors were listed during the day.

CLAIM PEONAGE IN ARKANSAS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Attorney General Cummings today filed a report which he said contained evidence of possible violation of federal peonage laws by southern planters.

The report, prepared by Samuel E. Whitaker, a special assistant to Cummings, contained "conflicting" evidence, the attorney general said. He declined to explain use of the word "conflicting," but said there was a question as to what federal laws were involved.

Whitaker's investigation, Cummings added, failed to produce any evidence that a federal statute had been violated in connection with the alleged flogging of Miss Willie Sue Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., social worker, and the Rev. Claude C. Williams of Little Rock, near Earle, Ark., last June 15.

Announcement of the department's action was greeted with outward unconcern by Arkansas planters.

LEAVENWORTH GETS BANDIT

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., (AP)—Removal of Roy Gardner, well known in the Southwest a few years ago as a bandit and train robber, to Leavenworth federal prison from Alcatraz Island today was confirmed by Leavenworth penitentiary officials. Gardner was one of several prisoners brought here Monday from Alcatraz.

Gardner, prison officials here said, has been confined in nearly every federal prison in the United States, as well as in an insane asylum in Washington, D. C.

In 1930 he was sentenced from Arizona to 25 years for train robbery and confined in Leavenworth Prison. A few years ago he was transferred to Alcatraz Island. Previously he had been confined to McNeil Island but escaped and was later recaptured.

Livestock Men At Conference

Range livestock men from all over the state were attending a meeting in Berkeley today, to discuss a possible 1937 range conservation program, according to an announcement from the farm adviser's office.

The meeting is one of a series to be held in the various western states to discuss the possibilities of a range conservation program under the terms of the soil conservation and domestic allotment act.

Director George E. Farrell said it was not intended to announce a program, but to give livestock producers an opportunity to discuss range practices which might be applicable in connection with the 1936 agricultural conservation program, and to make suggestions about a possible 1937 range program. Programs up for consideration will relate to private lands only and will not include suggestions for public lands.

JEW'S BOYCOTT GERMANY

GENEVA, (AP)—A resolution proposing a boycott of German products was adopted unanimously today at the world Jewish congress.

German National Socialism, said the resolution presented by the committees on boycotts, has declared war on the whole Jewish people and in three and one-half years has carried on a war of unexampled severity.

It recited further that the Jewish minority in Germany had been deprived of its most elemental civil rights and had been eliminated from the economic life of the country which drove it back to a new ghetto.

PREDICT MORE WHEAT, CORN

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Secretary Wallace told his press conference today that increased wheat and corn acreage next year would be a natural result of the present drought.

He said he believed the present soil conservation program could be continued by a reduction in crops other than wheat and corn.

While in Chicago yesterday, the secretary said, he heard that "some of the amateurs out in that neck of the woods said that the AAA program had caused imports of wheat."

Wallace said this was untrue and cited figures which he said showed that both wheat and corn planted for harvest this season was larger than the previous year.

Socialists Claim 3,000,000 Votes

NEW YORK, (AP)—George A. Nelson, Socialist candidate for the vice presidency, estimated today his party would poll about 3,000,000 votes in the presidential election.

"The organized farmers, to a large degree," he asserted, "feel they are through with both branches of the capitalistic party—generally termed the Democrats and Republicans."

Although he said this feeling maintains, the 63-year-old candidate did not claim the Socialist party would carry any states. He added to this negative comment: "However, it's mighty hard to tell what might happen between now and November."

PROTECT THE BEACHES

(Tustin News)
With indications that there will be many propositions on the ballot in the general election in November and that some confusion as to their various public values may prevail, The News wishes to call attention to one initiative measure which should receive the favorable vote of every citizen and be distinguished and set apart from the many others.

It is an initiative measure to prohibit tideland oil drilling. After a careful study of its many beneficial provisions, we unhesitatingly endorse it and recommend our readers to do the same at the polls.

Briefly, the measure provides for protection of the beaches by prohibiting tideland oil drilling, oil pollution and interference with bathing, navigation and fishing. It also provides revenue without cost to the taxpayers to enable the State Park Commission to continue its highly regarded program of acquiring and maintaining for the people vast areas of beaches and inland parks, the measure enabling the state to regulate and legalize drilling into state owned oil pools by means of strict drilling regulations. From royalties so received the state could carry out its beach and park program on a large scale, and sufficient additional revenue would be received to aid in reducing taxes.

The measure has worked out to the benefit of the state and its people a solution of the beach problem, and at the same time regulating drilling and draining of state owned oil pools which are now being developed illegally in a haphazard manner with the state receiving no proper return for its resources.

To vote for this measure is to vote for one's own best interest.

DOG DAYS

(Anaheim Bulletin)

The period of greatest heat is traditionally called "dog days," beginning with the time when Sirius, the dog star, is in conjunction with the sun. Dogs are said to be most likely to go mad during that period.

All animals need plenty of water in dog days. People who still drive horses should not expect them to toil over highway or farm without frequent drinks. Patient Old Dobbin will not go mad, but running him without water on a hot day is like operating your automobile without oil.

The drinking fountains of former days usually had places where the dogs could drink. It is not the business of the gas stations to water the dog, and the careless owner may never think of it. Watch those friendly creatures rolling their red tongues, and think how you would like it if unable to find water. But as for humans, they will not suffer from lack of water, until the city supply or the old well runs dry.

RELATE PLOT TO EXTORT MONEY

Witness Says Bannister Gave Attorney Sum to Quiet Him

NEW YORK. (AP)—Harry S. Hechheimer, formerly attorney for Harry Bannister, actor and theatrical producer and now one of the three men accused of extorting $1800 from him, testified in court today he saw one of his fellow defendants give money to the third man on Dec. 15, 1934.

Hechheimer said he was riding in a taxicab with Jerome A. Jacobs, lawyer, and Raymond Derringer, formerly a private detective, when Derringer gave the money to Jacobs.

It was on that day, the indictment charges, that Bannister, fearful lest affidavits giving him an unfavorable character be given by his former wife, Ann Harding, screen actress, drew $200 from the bank and gave it to Derringer.

Gave Envelope
Hechheimer also admitted he got $300 from Bannister early in 1935. Assistant District Attorney Eugene Finnegan produced in court before Judge Morris Koenig and a jury Hechheimer's grand jury testimony setting forth he got $300 from Bannister as a loan on the same day that Bannister allegedly gave Derringer $1800.

Under cross-examination he admitted he saw Bannister give Derringer an envelope which, he said he learned later, contained money. The threats to make affidavits to Miss Harding the affidavits were made, the state charges, while Bannister was engaged in a custody battle over his daughter, Jane, who is now with the screen actress in England.

Got Money Twice
Derringer, called to the stand after Hechheimer, said he received $200 from a sum of money Bannister gave him. Hechheimer, he

GIVE HOSPITAL AIR PROGRAM

Over 130 requests from 44 patients in the tuberculosis ward of the Orange County hospital were received by KVOE for a special program for the patients this evening at 5:30. Of course, only a portion of the requests can be granted during the half-hour presentation, but it may be that another program in the near future will take care of the requests not granted this evening, program officials stated.

This is the second broadcast scheduled especially for the hospital patients who eagerly await it with headphones and small radios. A wide variety of musical selections have been requested. "Melancholy Baby," "Twelfth Street Rag," "Breeze" and "Drowsy Waters" are the tunes selected by the Aloha Hawaiians for their program this evening at 5:15 in response to requests.

swore, got the rest. Hechheimer previously denied getting anything.

Derringer said he received money from Bannister twice, receiving besides the $200 another sum of $60. With Bannister's knowledge, he testified, he spoke to various friends of the producer's to try to determine if they would make affidavits favorable or unfavorable to Bannister.

Judge Attacks Insanity Defense for Criminals

UKIAH. (AP)—Superior Judge W. D. L. Held, in releasing De Witt C. Skinner from the criminal insane ward of the Mendocino state hospital this week, criticized the law which, he said, "protects criminals" who are able to deceive psychiatrists.

Skinner, who was freed on a writ of habeas corpus, admitted in court that he feigned insanity. "Society has a right to demand that it be protected from the depredations of individuals such as this petitioner admits himself to be," said Judge Held in freeing Skinner.

"But that protection cannot be had when examiners find a man insane, and a few days later, when he is received at the state hospital, the psychiatrists on the staff of that institution find him sane, and the court is then powerless to do aught but release him at the expiration of one year, to again prey on society."

ORANGE COUNTY SENDS 85 TO PRISON DURING PAST TWO YEARS

421 CHARGED ON FELONIES IN PERIOD

Menton Makes Biennial Report to Webb; Only One Death Sentence

The district attorney's office has batted 829 for the past two years.
whatta baseball team!

But this particular batting average concerns the record of convictions, charges and dismissals for the period from July 1, 1934, to June 30, 1936, in District Attorney W. F. Menton's biennial report to Attorney-General U. S. Webb.

Eighty-five prisoners went to San Quentin and Folsom state prisons. Seventy-one were sent to juvenile schools and other institutions, and 102 served county jail terms as conditions of probation.

Four hundred twenty-one persons were charged with felonies during the period. Disposed of before trial were 339, which includes pleas of guilty, reduction to misdemeanors, dismissals, insane, and other reasons. Ninety went to trial. Eighteen were convicted at a court trial and 51 others were found guilty by juries. Courts released eight, and juries acquitted 13. One was pending at the time of the report.

Seventy-two persons who were charged escaped sentences, but of these only 22 went to trial. Twenty-one were acquitted, 44 dismissed, three were juveniles, one was dismissed because he had already been tried for the same offense, and three were indicted but not brought to trial.

Only one person was sentenced to death during the period. He was Natividad Valenzuela, sentenced to die for the murder of his wife, Jovita, in Delhi this year.

Not one prisoner was released on a writ of habeas corpus during the two years. Release of 115 Mexican strikers came in July, after the period covered by the report.

Democrats Attack Blasts on New Deal; Republicans Point to Landon's Record

The Journal conducts this forum so that its readers may receive full and authoritative information upon the issues of the presidential campaign. Horace C. Head, chairman of the county Democratic campaign committee, and B. Z. McKinney are in charge of that party's contributions.
Howard Irwin, head of the Republican county central committee, and Dr. W. E. Dixon are contributing their party's articles.—Editor's note.

BY THE DEMOCRATS

That the opposition to President Roosevelt will stop at nothing, even to the use of false statements, is well illustrated by an article by the Republican committee in Wednesday's Journal.

In that article the statement was made that "the whole idea of the New Deal is Russian." The whole article evidences an entire lack of responsibility for sticking to the truth.

If this is a sample of what might be expected in the forthcoming campaign, it can be readily seen that the directing heads of the campaign of Republicans in Orange county are stepping step by step with Hearst and the American Liberty League in their wild untruthful and personal vilification of the President.

"Is This Communism"

It is to be noted that the article specifically says nothing. It generally says everything. No mention is made of any specific part of the administration which is communistic. We wonder if they feel that the banking legislation is communistic, if the loaning of federal money to the Metropolitan Water district is communistic, if the loaning of money to our school system for the building of schools for the education of children is communistic, if the old age security act is communistic, if the program of aid to farmers is communistic, if the Civilian Conservation Corps is communistic, if the aiding of the unemployed and needy is communistic, if the loaning of money to small home owners and farmers to save their homes and farms is communistic.

If their answer to these questions is in the affirmative, then the Republican party must be communistic also, as in its platform it has promised the American people to carry on these programs.
We would also inquire if the Republicans believe that President Roosevelt is a Communist. Certainly they should not hesitate to answer this question in their columns definitely "yes" or "no".
It is a quite common practice

now when someone does not agree with your views, and who cannot answer you with logical reasoning, to wave his arms and call you a Communist or a Red. We do not believe the American people can be scared by any such silly, false and radical innuendo and propaganda.

We prefer to conduct our campaign on a higher plane—one of presenting issues and facts rather than to personally abuse and vilify.

BY THE REPUBLICANS

What promises did Landon make to the people of Kansas when he ran for the office of governor of that state? He told the people if they would elect him governor he would reduce their taxes, stop waste in government expenditures, balance both the budget of the highway department as well as the state. The people of Kansas believed that Landon was a man of his word; that if he was elected he would fulfill his promises and they elected him by a majority of 3,000. Roosevelt carried the state by 75,000.

How did Landon keep his promises to the people? Although his party only had a majority of two in each house of the legislature, he immediately announced that the relief problem was not a matter of politics and would not be treated as such. He had a bill introduced in the legislature to limit the amount of taxes that could be levied.
There were two exceptions to this; that for schools and for relief.

Cash Basis Law

He also introduced and had passed a cash basis law outlawing tax anticipation warrants, making it a penalty of $100 to $500 fine for any treasurer of any county, city or town to cash a warrant when there was no money in the treasury with which to pay it.

He also introduced and had passed a budget law. Thus budgets must be advertised for a certain length of time and a protest of 20 per cent of the voters made it mandatory for a revision of that budget.

The Highway Department

When Landon took office the highway department had a deficit of almost $2,000,000. Over the protest of some of his warmest political friends he introduced a bill and had it passed, cutting the automobile license tax by about 50 per cent. Kansas derives all its revenue for the highway department from this automobile tax. Landon built as many roads as had been built during the same period before and the highway department has a cash balance in the treasury of some $500,000. The treasury of Kansas has a cash balance of $1,250,000 and during Landon's occupancy of the state house the Kansas debt has been reduced $18,500,000. The expense of running the government has been cut about 23 per cent, and taxes have been reduced by 26 per cent. There is no sales tax in Kansas.

Thus we have the record of both candidates. Roosevelt (as told yesterday) made promises, but after election became too busy with other matters to make good his promises. Landon on the other hand then believed, and now believes, that a campaign pledge is a sacred obligation to be kept to the letter.

MWD WAGES RETURN TO SANTA ANA

$430,000 Total Earning On Project; 126 Local Men on Job in July

With 126 Santa Ana residents listed as employed on the Metropolitan Water District aqueduct during July, and more than 400 Santa Ana men having been employed on the job since inception of the project, Santa Ana families and business firms have benefited to the extent of about $430,000 as a result of wages paid these workers.

Such was the estimate released today by the office of General Manager F. E. Weymouth of the Metropolitan district.

Wealth to Industry
In addition to aqueduct bond money which is going directly into payrolls of men engaged in the building of the giant water system, a large proportion of money invested in materials and equipment is paid to industrial workers, it is pointed out by General Manager Weymouth.

During the present fiscal year the water district is expected to invest approximately $50,000,000 in aqueduct construction work, and Santa Ana citizens will continue to get their full share of these benefits, it was stated.

For every dollar collected from the district cities to pay interest on aqueduct bonds during the present fiscal year, there will be more than $4.50 of aqueduct bond money going into the pay envelopes of men working on aqueduct construction and on the manufacture of aqueduct materials and equipment, Weymouth said.

Stimulus to Industry

"Designed and being built to bring water from the Colorado river to homes and factories in Southern California, the aqueduct has come to be a tremendous stimulus to Southern California industry and one of the greatest providers of useful, productive employment in America," he added.

Ranked as the largest construction job of its kind in the United States, the giant aqueduct will bring Colorado river water to the 15 cities now in the district and such other Southern California areas as may be admitted to the group.

Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton are Orange county cities that now belong to the district.

Steele Finley is basing his campaign for supervisor on a slogan—
"full-time service for a full-time job," while Sam I. Preble, running for the same office, says he's going to find out "where the tax money goes."

Finley, a resident of Orange county for 57 years, has worked for the public since 1915, though he's never held public office on public pay. He has been a contractor of public works all that time, and is carrying a message to the people that he has worked in their interests during that time.

"In all my life here," he says,
"I have favored all reasonable public improvements, and opposed reckless and wanton waste or attempted waste of public funds. I still do."

One of his campaign planks is
his opposition to the county bonding itself for $15,000,000 for control, destruction of public buildings, and acquisition of unnecessary real estate.

And as for the job—"A supervisor's salary is $2500 a year and justifies full time service," he says.

If elected, Sam Preble says he is going to find out why the county doesn't get lower taxes, when there is more property being built on each year, bringing in additional money.

employment in America," he added.

Ranked as the largest construction job of its kind in the United States, the giant aqueduct will bring Colorado river water to the 15 cities now in the district and such other Southern California areas as may be admitted to the group.

Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton
are Orange county cities that
now belong to the district.

Steele Finley is basing his campaign for supervisor on a slogan—
"full-time service for a full-time job," while Sam I. Preble, running for the same office, says he's going to find out "where the tax
money goes."

Finley, a resident of Orange county for 57 years, has worked for the public since 1915, though he's never held public office on public pay. He has been a contractor of public works all that time, and is carrying a message to the people that he has worked
in their interests during that time.

"In all my life here," he says,
"I have favored all reasonable public improvements, and opposed reckless and wanton waste or attempted waste of public funds. I still do."

One of his campaign planks is
his opposition to the county bonding itself for $15,000,000 for control, destruction of public
necessary real estate.

And as for the job—"A supervisor's salary is $2500 a year and justifies full time service," he says.

If elected, Sam Preble says he is going to find out why the county doesn't get lower taxes, when there is more property being built
on each year, bringing in additional money.

+ + History Makers + + Max Strobel, Adventurer, Died Just as Ambitious Scheme Succeeded

(Men are remembered after their death for their unselfish service to their fellow men. Robert Gardner of Orange has written a series of articles about pioneers of this section, which The Journal is publishing in order to preserve the memory and deeds of outstanding character. Today's sketch tells about Major Max Strobel.—Editor.)

Max von Strobel was a most colorful figure. Before he came to Anaheim he went through the Revolution of 1848 in Germany.
He then went to Nicaragua, where he filibustered, and from there he came to Anaheim. His first venture in Anaheim was making wine, but he soon tired of that, so he turned his attention to boring for oil in the Brea district.
That was in 1867, and proved to be a failure.

He then started the movement to separate this part of Los Angeles county and make it a county of its own. He wanted to call the new county Anaheim county. One of the main arguments for separation was strange but true. It took two days and $6 to make a trip to Los Angeles court house.

This was not a desirable condition for people who lived in Anaheim.
Another argument was that one coil of hose was owned by the county, and it was kept in Los Angeles. His efforts failed. He managed to get his bill to make this section a separate county through the assembly, but someone had more money than he had,
and as a result the bill was blocked in the senate. Los Angeles politicians could see that separation would be their loss.

He next became absorbed in journalism in Anaheim. Since he was cultured and traveled, he brought culture to his fellow men through the Gazette.

The last effort of his venturesome career was his attempt to sell Catalina island to a British company. Backed by the owners, he went to London. He almost effected the sale. He had appointments to sign agreements on the following morning for £200,000, but he did not keep the trust. He had died in his hotel, quite alone, so he did not carry out his part of the transaction. For the first time in his life fortune smiled, or was about to smile on him, but alas, it was never realized.

Eighteen or 20 years later Catalina was sold for much less than the agreement Strobel had managed to make.

His life was filled with adventure, hardship, loss, failure, but he was always ready to try again.
He was public spirited, dynamic, determined and, most of all, he was a good loser, but never a quitter.

Walking along Canal Street recently, I happened to stop a few minutes at a corner.

"Move on," said a new policeman. "No loitering around here."

News Found At End of Rainbow

Little pots of gold, each at the foot of a small rainbow, brought a surprise to a group of friends of Miss Vivian Russell, popular Santa Ana Junior college graduate, when they gathered recently at the home of her mother, Mrs. F. E. Russell in Newport Heights, upon invitation from Mrs. Calvin P. Stilwell of Los Angeles.

Concealed in the pot-of-gold nut cups at the places were cards telling of the marriage on Saturday, August 1, of Miss Russell and Edward O. Meador, both of Newport Heights.

Married in Newport. The ceremony, according to details revealed by the bride, was solemnized at the Newport Beach Methodist parsonage, with the Rev. Mr. Kemp J. Winkler officiating, and with only the immediate families in attendance.

Both the bride and bridegroom are well known in Santa Ana, where they attended and were graduated from the junior college, Miss Russell affiliating there with the Las Gitanas service organization.

Mr. Meador was president of the Junior Lions club while on the campus and a member of the engineer's club, and has been employed in the printing department of the Newport Harbor Publishing company.

Recently he received a civil service appointment which took him to Yosemite National park on August 5.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Russell of Newport Heights, and Mr. Meador has been making his home with his aunt, Miss Alice C. Plumer, in the same town.

A rainbow theme was carried out throughout the appointments for the announcement party, at which Mrs. Stilwell presided as hostess, rainbow colors being used in flowers, tally cards, table covers, napkins and refreshments.

Bride Receives Gifts.

Hearts were played the first part of the evening, with first and second prizes going to Mrs. Emily Plumer and Miss Lila Davis, respectively, and as a consolation prize a large basket of gifts topped by a crepe paper rainbow was presented to the honored guest.

Guests invited to hear announcement of the marriage were Misses Jeanette and Dorothy Bodman, Marion and Avaris Nelson, Lorna Mills, Hazel Cuthbert, Alice Plumer, and Mesdames F. E. Russell, Fred Gregory, and Emily Plumer, all of Newport Beach.

Miss Marion Dickey of Balboa, Miss Lila Davis of Corona del Mar, Miss Anne Pearce, Miss Blanche Siegel, Miss Jane Elin, Miss Betty Dodge, and Miss Virginia McClellan, all of Costa Mesa; Mrs. Byron Johnson of Glendale; Miss Alma Graves and Mrs. Eric Cluff of Fullerton; Mrs. Howard Hawkins of Placentia; Mesdames H. B. Hathrop, Gilman Jenks, H. B. Symmes, and Juanita Stilwell, Los Angeles; Miss Julia Fischer, Upland, and Miss Dike, Redlands.

FORMER ORANGE GIRL HERE ON VISIT

A visitor in the county this month who is forming the incentive for a number of informal gatherings of old friends is Mrs. Frank Watson of LaFayette, Ind., the former Lois Clement of Orange, who has been living in the east since her marriage a year and a half ago.

Mrs. Watson, who was accompanied by Miss Janet Lomel, also of LaFayette, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clement, in Orange. Miss Lomel also being a guest of the home.

"CUM LAUDE" IN COLLEGE CHIC

Honorable mention goes to this two-piece knitted rabbit wool frock which an American designer created for the college girl's first days' back in the classroom. The skirt is gray, line-checked in deep blue, and the gray blouse has a collar marked with the same checking. With the outfit goes a scalloped beret of gray suede.

"ROCKY ROAD" LEADS TO GIFT TREASURE

Miss Georgina Irvin, who is to be married the end of this month to Ray Cartwright of Santa Ana, and who has been honored with a number of delightful courtesies during the past few weeks, was complimented by her aunt, Mrs. Frank Dausser of Fullerton, at a lingerie shower Wednesday night.

To find her lovely gifts, Miss Irvin had to go over a "rocky road" to marital bliss, the journey creating much merriment both for the honored guest and those sharing in the shower courtesy.

When the treasure had been discovered and unwrapped, the guests were invited to the dining room table for ice cream, cake and coffee, finding there a miniature wedding scene in a pretty candle-lit centerpiece. Little rosebud napkins and mirror place cards marked the places for the following:

Miss Irvin and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Irvin, of this city; the Misses Dorothy and Mildred Dausser, daughters of the hostess and cousins of the honored guest; Mr. and Mrs. Art Cannon of Orange, uncle and aunt of Miss Irvin; Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Dausser, cousins from Fullerton; Ray Cartwright, the bridegroom-elect, and the hostess and Mr. Dausser.

LAS GITANAS TALK OVER FALL PLANS

Miss Faria Nell Clayton invited members of Las Gitanas, Santa Ana Junior college women's service organization, to the home of her aunt, Miss Hazel Nell Bemus, at Laguna Beach Wednesday for an informal pot-luck supper and the first pre-school get-together.

Plans for fall initiation and meetings were discussed by the group, who included the Misses Alice Compton, Mary and Jean Paxton, Anne Borchard, Mary Elizabeth Heaney, Dorothy Stady, Dorothy Pettit, Gerrie Griffith, and Miss Clayton, members and alumnae; Miss Muriel Anderson, advisor, and Miss Merian Pease, guest of the hostess.

KOOL KOOKERY

Dedicated to helping Santa Ana arrange cooling meals with a minimum effort, Las Gitanas will present daily a recipe appropriate for hot-weather menus.

She won't let us use her name, but she's willing to share this recipe for a tangy tamale pie. Try it the next time you plan to have guests for an outdoor supper around your garden grill.

The ingredients are: one large tomato, one onion, one chili pepper, one teaspoonful of chili powder, one tablespoonful of fat, a pinch of salt, cornmeal and beef in the desired quantities, according to the number to be served.

Cut meat in small pieces, chop onion, tomato and pepper quite fine. Fry together slowly in fat, add meat and brown. Add enough boiling water to make a pint of gravy.

Simmer until beef is tender, season with salt and chili powder. Skim out meat and pass through meat grinder. Return meat to gravy, add enough corn meal to make a thick mush. When cold, cut in slices, fry and serve with salsa.

Flowers And Trees Club Topics

The story of a 74-year-old Catholic priest, the Rev. Father Schoner of Santa Barbara, who has among the 2300 varieties of roses in his garden a velvety black rose named after his old friend, late Oliver Wendell Holmes, and rose trees almost 20 feet high, and who is working now to perfect an edible rose, featured the interesting discussion of flowers and trees taken up at yesterday's meeting of Las Felicitas club.

The members met at the home of Mrs. Guy Penn on North Main street, each contributing to the afternoon program with bits of information from various sources. Facts about the prickly cactus plants were among the subjects highlighting the afternoon.

Vacations kept two members away, Mrs. Henry Schwamborn visiting her mother in Pennsylvania and Mrs. Tom Harris vacationing in the northern part of the state.

Mrs. J. H. Klein of Taylor, Texas, mother of Mrs. Joseph Ogle, was a visitor at the meeting, and members present were the Mesdames Albert Raymond of Anaheim, Lewis Williams, Howard Taylor, Joseph Ogle, Darcy Crosby, J. E. Braden and Mrs. Penn.

Mary Stoddard In-Laws Have No Place in Home of New Family; Should Live Near, Not in It

By MARY STODDARD

"I never stopped to think what I would do if I faced the same problem." It would be a different signature that today's correspondent used, or perhaps she would never have had to write for advice, if she had had an agreement before marriage that her mother-in-law was not to live in her home. Dear Mary Stoddard: Before I got married, I had heard many times the old story of a wife trying to get along with a bossy mother-in-law, but like most readers I never stopped to think what I would do if faced with the same problem. And here I am, with it staring me in the face! Now I can fully sympathize with all those poor misfortunates who have gone through this.

THORN in the FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE

Times must be better!

Maybe not back to pre-depression days, but at least better than four years ago if campaign money means anything.

In 1928, $4,230,000 was spent to elect Hoover, while Al Smith's supporters checked out $5,342,000. In 1932 figures dropped: $1,638,000 was spent to elect President Roosevelt, while Hoover used $2,670,000.

In both cases, it is interesting to note, the party spending the least election money was the winner.

This year, Republicans have set as a goal, a campaign fund of $3,000,000, and the Democrats $2,000,000, which figures, though below 1928 levels, are above 1932.

But, now consider Third Party Lemke's remark that if he had "as much as $50,000" he could "snow under both old time parties."

If statisticians are correct in their estimate that votes cost eight cents per head, it kinda

Foods Need Make-Up

By JUDITH WILSON

"Make-up" is what you call it when, with a deft application of color, a dusting of complexion powder and a drop of perfume, you transform yourself into a glamorous lady.

There are a lot of foods that can stand a bit of make-up, too. A discreet dab of whipped cream, a sprinkling of chopped chives or paprika, a meat accompaniment of sauteed fruit or an unusual combination of flavors will often convert an inexpensive dish into something you can be proud of.

The following is a suggestion: Baked Beans With Pineapple

Open a tall can of baked beans and add 1 teaspoon grated onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire and salt to taste. Turn into 4 individual baking dishes. Sauté 4 pineapple slices in 2 tablespoons butter until golden brown on one side, turn and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Turn several times until coated with caramel on both sides. Arrange on the beans in the small baking dishes and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes.

looks like Lemke is beat already and Father Coughlin better save his money to bet on the horses—his chances are better!

Make Your Skin Tonic At Home

By JACQUELINE HUNT

Some of you are already looking forward to your shopping for fall clothes. Shops are again showing smart suits and dresses in black and vivid autumn shades and daring new hats to match. Can you wear them becomingly? Do they make you look young but pretty and sophisticated?

Or, is there something amiss? The chances are 10 to 1 that there is something wrong with your complexion if the new clothes do not look right.

Make Skin Clear

Even though your skin is still tanned by your summer outings, you can look well in anything, but the skin itself must be clear, soft and fine in texture.

For ordinary skin troubles there are simple and inexpensive remedies on your pantry shelf. The treatment that I have for you today will bleach your skin gradually, refine its texture and clear up minor blemishes.

From Pantry Shelf

For the average skin, equal parts almond meal and oatmeal are about right. If your skin is inclined to be very dry, use two parts almond meal and oatmeal meal. One cup of almond meal and one-half cup oatmeal makes enough of the preparation to fill a dozen small three-inch square bags of cheesecloth.

Squeeze and strain the juice from one large lemon into a glass and add an equal amount of cold water. Put one or two of the little bags to soak in the lemon water while you cleanse your skin thoroughly, first with a luffing cleansing cream, then soap and water.

Ten-Minute Treatment
Rinse and take a little bag and smooth it over your skin for 10 minutes, or until most of the moisture has been squeezed out; then use the second bag. Let the milky liquid dry on your skin, and rinse with cold water.

Take a hand mirror and examine your skin. You will see that it is much clearer in a single treatment. If your skin is very dry and sensitive, apply nourishing cream and leave it on for 10 or 15 minutes. Then wipe off the excess and give your skin a final patting with cold water.

These "beauty bags" can be used as often as you wish.

Temecula Woman Is Murdered

RIVERSIDE, (AP)—An investigation was made today in the death of Mrs. Meloy McNeill, 55, beaten apparently with a clothes wringer roller at her Temecula home.

Her husband and 20-year-old son, both named John McNeill, told sheriff's officers she was killed during their absence from the house.

The husband, a blacksmith and deputy constable, was held as a material witness.

EARTHQUAKE DEATH
LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Another death was blamed today on the earthquake of March 10, 1933. George Crist, 79, succumbed to injuries which had confined him to a hospital since the disaster.

The Friday Afternoon

By DONALD BUTTON

Starting at a time when resolutions are far removed from mind, "The Friday Afternoon" nevertheless must make public the things I have resolved to include, and omit. At no later date then can there be a mistaking of the purpose of its origin.

Southern California proves now to foster more real accomplishment in the Creative Arts than ever before. Ovarious given Mildred Sheets in New York the inclusion of Tom Craig, Barse Miller, Paul Sample, and Sheets again in the Colorado Springs Show which also included Grant Wood, Albert Bloch, John Sloan, John Steuart Curry, and Thomas Hart Benton; the growing importance of our own gallery at Laguna—these are all indications of the increasing importance of the Arts in the Southland. Production has reached a high point. Exhibitions increase, and interest. Orange county needs to know "what happens?" "The Friday Afternoon" is born.

Today, personal comment rather than blinding criticism is the resulting review of a "show." A good way to do, I think, as criticism presupposes the absolute rightness of the critic, deadens creative thought in others. Hence, "The Friday Afternoon" will be as personal as living thought will permit. One cannot have had creative experience in any of the related Arts and expect his work to be an enduring crystallization of that single moment.

In this, I expect to bring exhibitions and artists within Orange county especially to notice. As time and space permit, any significant news without will also appear.

Projected for the next several issues are thumbnail sketches of prominent Southland personalities in this field, a review of the current exhibition at the Laguna Gallery, comment on the Fall program at Bowers Museum. A calendar of "things to see," in my own way of thinking, will always appear.

"The Friday Afternoon" hopes through the publicizing of the work of others to stimulate both creation and appreciation in the Arts. Than this there is no greater satisfaction.

POINT POST OFFICE IS VACATED

WEST POINT, (AP)—The United States civil service commission has notified Miss Grace Harrington, West Point postmaster, that her application to enter an open competitive examination for the post had been disapproved because she failed to meet specific residential requirements.

Miss Harrington, an "army junior," has held the post for eight years.

Recent reports that she would be replaced brought Army officers to her defense with statements that the job at West Point always had been a non-political appointment and since 1847 had been filled by an army orphan.

Miss Harrington, daughter of Lieut. Henry M. Harrington, who lost his life in the Custer massacre, also had been endorsed by the superintendent of the military academy, the association of graduates, the order of Indian wars, and many residents of the reservation.

The current issue of the Army and Navy Journal called upon

Under Observation

An insanity complaint was filed at Los Angeles against red-haired Mrs. Margaret S. Fillmore, former actress and sister of Mary Miles Minter, by her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby. "I can't understand this action," said Mrs. Fillmore, pictured in the psychopathic ward of the Los Angeles general hospital. (Associated Press Photo)

President Roosevelt to end the uncertainty "with a scratch of his pen" by reappointing Miss Harrington.

NEW JEWELRY CLUB CHANGES STORE OPENS MEET PLACE

He'll loan you money, or sell you a guitar, a suitcase, sporting goods or jewelry.

That, in a nutshell, is the business of C. M. Marks, who opens his store tomorrow at 120 East Fourth street, at Fourth and Bush streets.

Marks, a resident of California for 12 years, came here from St. Louis, Mo. He has been an outstanding auctioneer in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"We were just here half an hour a few weeks ago," Marks says, "and we liked Santa Ana and this store. So we decided to move in."

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Marks and his stepson, Arthur Hoffman, Marks will employ two other clerks in the store. At his coming tomorrow, Marks will offer free souvenir wallets for men and genuine leather key cases for women visitors.

BUY POLISH ERMINE

WARSAW, (AP)—Much of the ermine to be worn by royalty and nobility at Edward VIII's coronation in London next year will come from Poland. One Warsaw firm has received an order from England for approximately $130,000 worth of the precious fur.

Subjects ranging from the purely narrative to the controversial made up the program of El Camino Toastmasters club last evening with Nolon Doss as toastmaster of the evening. George Deroulac, president of Smedley club No. 1, was visiting toastmaster. The club decided to hold future meetings at the Home cafe where facilities for large meetings are better. Roy Coleman, M. Macurda and Fred McCandless, past presidents, were made a committee on nominations for officers to be elected at the final August meeting; new officers to be installed the first September meeting.

William Gray continued his talk before the club on chain stores. E. M. (Sunny) Sundquist, recently returned from an eastern trip, related the story of the Meadow Mountain massacre in Utah when an entire wagon train of emigrants was massacred by Indians, said to have been instigated by white men.

"What Is to Be Will Be" was the title of the offering of T. D. (Ted) MacBrid. This speaker also offered the table topic of the evening which had to do with fantastic inventions which have been patented.

What football strategy may be adopted during the next year or so and why made up the sports topic selected by Roy Coleman. Dr. Ralph E. Watson commented on the use of parking meters and digressed into a discussion of candidates and political methods. Ernest S. Wooster told of the methods of assessing and taxing property.

Critics of the speakers were Dale Griggs, Dr. Merrill Hollingsworth, W. H. (Ted) Blanding, M. Macurda, Fred Eley and Fred McCandless, the latter being general critic.

O'BRIEN STAR IN FILM AT STATE

George O'Brien plays the part of a railroad in a thrilling romance, "Whispering Smith Speaks," that comes to the State theater tonight for an engagement of two days.

"Whispering Smith Speaks" tells the story of the son of a railroad magnate who decides to learn all about the railroad business from the ground up instead of starting at the top. He gets a job with a small line, falls in love with the girl who runs it, saves her property from schemers and wins the girl and his father's respect.

With him in the cast are Irene Ware, Kenneth Thomson, Spencer Charters, Victor Potel, Frank Sheridan and William V. Mong.

Also on the bill are a "Sons of the Pioneers" comedy, "Way Up Thar," a colored Merle Melody cartoon, "I'm a Big Shot Now," Chapter No. 3 of "The Adventures of Rex and Rinty," and a news-reel.

The state executive said he restored Dulin's freedom and lost citizen's rights when deputy sheriffs, prosecutors and the trial judge expressed the belief Dulin had not been an active participant in the alleged gangster's murder, and had not entered into the conspiracy to kill.

Dulin and two other men, Dewey Lewis and William Lowry, were tried separately for the killing. The latter two were acquitted.

The latter two were acquitted.

FLEET ON WAY HOME AGAIN

HONOLULU, (AP)—Nine battleships, seven destroyers and the repair ship Medusa of the United States navy sailed today for California ports. They had spent one month in Hawaiian waters in technical maneuvers.

The destroyers and the battleship New Mexico will go to San Diego and the others to San Pedro. Five submarines, the submarine tender Holland and the Bushnell, flagship of the submarine division, remained at the Pearl Harbor naval base here. They will continue maneuvers indefinitely under command of Rear Admiral Joseph DeFrees.

Fire Destroys Baseball Park

OMAHA, Neb., (AP)—The Omaha Western League baseball park was destroyed and several families were driven from nearby homes by a spectacular fire early today. Police reported one person was overcome by smoke in one of several houses across the street from the park. Firemen struggled to halt spread of the flames to other residences and nearby business structures.

KNOX FLAYS EXPENSIVE NEW DEAL

Candidate Asks for Real 'Share-the-Wealth' Movement

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—An attack on the New Deal as "the most expensive amateur hour in history" by Frank Knox, vice presidential candidate, who also advocated a "real share-the-wealth movement" of widespread employee ownership of stock, opened a drive by Republicans to recapture West Virginia.

The nominee, speaking before his party's state convention and an overflow crowd of several thousand persons, added: "And in November, the American people will give all those New Deal performers the go."

Workers' Plank Knox declared there has been a strong movement in the direction of wider stock distribution among workers, but that this had been halted "only temporarily" by the depression.

He also amplified his party's position on labor matters, saying:

"The relentless forces in the American system are moving toward shorter hours and higher wages. Our Republican administration will encourage this trend."

Courts Democrats Knox made a definite bid for Democratic support, telling the convention the "mad course of the Roosevelt administration" had alienated many leading Democrats and that the November battle was "not a campaign against the Democratic party."

Among the alleged alienated Democrats he mentioned was John W. Davis, a native of the mountaineer state and former Democratic presidential candidate.

Townsend Is Suit Defendant

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Dr. F. E. Townsend and Robert E. Clements, co-founders and the old age revolving pension plan were defendants today in a $11,200 suit filed by the Rev. Rupert D. Griffith, retired minister.

The plaintiff, who said he is president of the twin-pension plan, said the money was due for his work as a Townsend organizer and the sale of 500,000 booklets he wrote describing the movement.

Freighter Tied Up By Crew

SAN PEDRO. (AP)—A dispute between the captain and 25 unlicensed crew members on the Kentucky, American Hawaiian line freighter, delayed scheduled sailing.

The seamen refused to move 1,500 tons of general cargo yesterday as a protest against the captain's alleged action in flogging several for refusal to carry out orders to rig cargo booms at sea.

FLOODS KILL 96

SEOUL, Korea. (AP)—Heavy floods in south and central Korea on the heels of drenching rains have taken at least 96 lives, the government announced yesterday. Twenty-one persons are missing. A thousand homes were destroyed and more than 4,000 inundated.

Question: How Come Those 1935 Auto License Plates? Highway Patrol Elucidates

By FRANK ORR

How come these 1935 license plates on cars?

That's a question The Journal's been hearing from citizens for the past few weeks. Perfectly modern automobiles are driving around Orange county, with one big fault in the ensemble.

They may be nattily attired in the shiniest paint and blackest tires—but their license plates are vintage of '35, which isn't the thing today.

Those Who Pay Object "Why should I pay MY license fee and tax when these people drive around with their old plates?" asked one reader, practically foaming at the mouth.

"Don't they get arrested?" asked another.

Here's the answer, according to California Highway Patrol officers, who have that to worry about as well as other things:

Yes, They've Applied They stop these cars. One offi-

Against Preaching

Declaring there was practically "no preaching worth the name to be found," the Rev. Frederic S. Fleming (above), rector of the wealthy Trinity parish in New York City, called for a two-year moratorium on preaching. He said the sermons of today "are a poor edition of topical homiletics, a brand of religious pep talks." (Associated Press Photo)

PROBE DEATH OF MARSHAL

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Officers were investigating the death of Joseph Eugene (Gene) Myers on the theory today that the deputy United States marshal accidentally shot himself while cleaning his pistol.

The 32-year-old marshal was found fatally shot in his apartment last night. Investigators said his .38 caliber automatic pistol was on the floor and that the magazine was several feet away. Seven shells were scattered on the floor and a handkerchief, apparently used for cleaning the pistol, was nearby, investigators said.

Myers' wife, from whom he was separated, was visiting in San Antonio. His father, Joseph Myers, is federal labor mediator, and maintains an office here.

WERNERS PLEAD IMMUNITY

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Arguments for immunity were prepared today by counsel for four political figures, scheduled to enter pleas to indictments in a grand jury investigation of alleged liquor license "fixing."

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Werner, Joseph Weinblatt and Jessie Crain indicated they would contend their voluntary testimony before an assembly investigating committee recently gave them immunity from subsequent indictment.

STOMACH STOPS HEART

SAN BERNARDINO. (AP)—Eugene Nolan's stomach, misplaced in his chest cavity since his birth ten years ago, caused his death in a minor automobile accident, the county autopsy surgeon reported today. Apparently affected by the shock of the accident, the stomach interfered with the functioning of the heart.

Red Should Be Deer Hunter's Favorite Color This Year

If it hasn't horns, and it has a red shirt on—don't shoot it; it isn't a deer.

And there is Professor Victor Walker's recipe for successful deer hunting, and advice to lovebirds sportsmen who jump at the first twinkle of the cowbell.

There's no particular use getting shot now; there isn't a war and no compensation for getting disabled. But with the opening of deer season at the crack of dawn Sunday—a half hour before it really cracks, according to law—hundreds of Southern California sportsmen will shoulder arms, aim at the nearest calf, and shoot something. If they're lucky, it will be a deer; and if the deer's lucky, he'll be where the bullet isn't.

"Some fawn, huh?" cracks the hunter. But getting shot himself isn't fawn, so to speak, and Walker has the magic formula for protection from all but totally color-blind marksmen.

Wear a red hat, or a red shirt, or a red handkerchief around your neck. Wear red. It shows up better in the underbrush. The Revolutionary war's over, and there's no danger of getting shot for a Britisher.

Also—to the fellow on the butt end of the gun that's going off—Walker has this to say:

"Just don't shoot until you see the horns." Then he hints, your chances are better of staying away from irate farmers who've had their cows shot, and you won't be coming into town with a four-point Knight of Pythias over your shoulder instead of a deer.

HALLIBURTON LIVING AT LAGUNA

Laguna Beach may be only a whistle stop on the Royal Road to Romance for some folks, but it's home to Richard Halliburton, noted author.

At least, residents of Laguna report that the traveling journalist is living somewhere in their community, although real estate agents refuse to divulge the address, claiming that Halliburton is finishing a book and doesn't want to be disturbed.

But in spite of the mystery of his living quarters, the author of many best sellers really is somewhere in the artist colony, residents contend, as he has been seen on the streets several times.

Cow's Milk Better Than Preparations

By CLAUD CHRISSMAN, M. D.

One of the chief problems in the care of small babies in hot weather is their food. Mother's milk is the only really safe food. Unfortunately that is not always possible to get, and we are forced to use artificial food.

The best substitute for mother's milk is cow's milk, modified so that it resembles breast milk as possible. There are now many preparations and modifications of cow's milk on the market, but they are still far from perfect.

Proper Care Needed

Clean, fresh cow's milk, modified to suit your baby is, I repeat, the best substitute for mother's milk, but it must be carefully prepared and cared for. And those who do not have the time or facilities for doing this properly may be more successful with a prepared form of cow's milk.

The summer complaints of children are recognized under many names, but they all have much the same symptoms.

Summer Complaints

The undernourished, feeble child with impaired digestion is the most likely to be affected. The general symptoms are fairly constant. There may be indications of indigestion for a day or two; either an unusual appetite or refusal to take food. The child is restless and fretful. Nausea is usually the first indication of trouble, followed in a few hours by abdominal pain.

Fever may appear at once or not for a day or two. Some cases come on very rapidly, with violent symptoms of digestive infection.

Child in Pain

Pain is indicated by the sharp piercing cry and marked restlessness, with drawing up of the knees and rolling from side to side. They desire sleep, but rest only a short time and then wake up with a sharp cry.

There is nothing that adds so much to the prompt relief of these cases as prompt action. The stomach should be emptied and kept empty for a number of hours. This can be done by simply withholding food, but if the symptoms are severe a dessert spoonful of castor oil should be given at once. It need not be repeated. No food of any kind should be given till the stomach is empty. Give small quantities of water often. Milk in any form should be discontinued till vomiting and diarrhea are past.

STRICKEN BOY'S PARENTS HOME

KANSAS CITY, (AP)—Four anxious days the vacationing parents of 10-year-old Tommy Dunklin were sought to give consent for an emergency operation on their son. They were home today—and Tommy didn't need the operation.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dunklin drove in unexpectedly, amazed to find all the excitement their absence had stirred, but happy to find Tommy "out of danger."

Five physicians had agreed an operation was necessary, but recognized the absence of the parents as an obstacle to be removed only by the sharpest emergency. Then the boy rallied.

"I think he is well right now," the father smiled, explaining he and Mrs. Dunklin had driven from Egg Harbour, Wis., since Tuesday. The forwarding address they left at Egg Harbour had been misunderstood.

'PEACHES' WILL SETTLE DOWN

DENVER, (AP)—Mrs. Frances Heenan Hynes, the former "Peaches" Browning, said today she intends to settle here, lead a quiet life and rear a family.

She described as "just incidental" a decision of the New York supreme court establishing her claim as the widow of the late Edward W. Browning and awarding her dower rights in his estate. "I've been used to money—big money—for so long," Mrs. Hynes said. "I don't know and hardly care just what amount the court decision gives me."

She declared the "simple life" appeals to her now and that "it's much more important to be happy than rich."

She is the wife of Bernard J. Hynes, theater manager.

Meet Your Neighbor

The Journal's compilation of Orange county people you should know.

Name: K. E. Hillestad.

Occupation:

At present retired, recently engaged in the retail drug business here for a number of years.

Home Address:

1233 S. Van Ness Avenue.

When and where were you born?

March 23, 1876, Norway, Europe.

What has been the most interesting event in your life to date?

Running a country newspaper many years ago when only a mere boy, later taking up the study of pharmacy and then taking the pharmacy board examinations in Colorado and California, many years after my college work.

What form of recreation do you enjoy most?

Reading principally, also travel by motor and collecting maps of all kinds which I refer to when reading.

What career would you recommend for a young man starting out for himself today?

I hesitate to say. The professions are all pretty much overdone as are also business pursuits in the commercial world. Perhaps politics or the civil service offers the best bet for young men at present.

If you were editor of The Journal, what one change would you make in the paper?

This is not a fair question; you are putting me "on the spot" and I decline to answer. However, will say I enjoy your entire paper as is with perhaps a little more telegraphic news when important.

What do you like least in The Journal?

The comics, but that's a personal opinion matter only and in no way a criticism of your paper.

What do you like best in The Journal?

"Skinny" Skirvin's column in particular, and the entire editorial page in general as well as many other interesting features.

What bit of world news has interested you most in recent weeks?

The Midwest drought conditions and hot weather, together with telegraphic news in general.

What one thing does Santa Ana need most?

More people to trade with their independent merchants, (how well I know this) for after all, they are the backbone of every worthwhile business and community enterprise which I know anything about, public playgrounds, larger parks, auditoriums, etc., to the contrary notwithstanding.

How can Orange county be improved?

That would be hard to do. It is practically perfect now in my estimation. Perhaps a little more cooperation by everyone in a general way wouldn't hurt any. Let's try it and see.

What local news in The Journal has interested you most recently?

The orange pickers' strike, proposed water conservation with reference to flood control, and a reduction in taxes for the coming year were all interesting.

One-sentence interview.

'Tis a privilege to live in Orange county, California, especially in Santa Ana.

What's even more important in this field of appeal is the fact that trail-blazing expensive underwear is back in the picture.

The gay days when women sometimes slapped down $79 for a nightgown and $49 for a slip—and husbands liked it—are slowly but surely returning, lingerie-makers say today.

Luxuries Return

One said a Texas oil man's daughter had bought a $3000 negligee and underwear trousseau this year, and that "we get more demands for the luxury type of thing every day."

The "swing-skirted" nighties in which you may wish to bed often have a three-yard circumference below the knee.

Even nightgowns have empire lines this season—accented bust, slim, fitted waist and diaphragm. Women could get by with some of them at formal parties. (Lingerie-makers say some women have been appearing in public in their nightgowns occasionally for several years.)

The Mode Is "Lacy"

A smart lingerie house (chevyette), where even panties are specially designed, further describes the mode:

"Lingerie is 95 per cent satin.

"It is very lacy—but never 'plastered' with lace, as it was two years ago. The laces are val, binche and fine, hand-run Alencon.

"American women are wearing many more sheer nightgowns, such as French women always have worn, of high colors: Lipstick red, black, citron, which is like Chartreuse, and French blue."

Most lingerie, however, is lustrous satin in pale pink and the "off-white" shades which are more flattering than dead white. New colors are "opaline," a white with a delicate pink tinge, "honey," "lambright," and "crushed rose."

Those "lovebird" color pajamas, which one house is showing in satin, are, in plain English, green. Another new shade of green approved for pajamas is "spinach."

FIRES UNDER CONTROL IN MINNESOTA

Thousands of Fighters Check Blaze When Weather Shifts

ST. PAUL, (AP)—A stubborn host of fire fighters took swift advantage of a favorable change in the weather today to bring major forest fires under control. Minnesota's three principal conflagrations were checked for the time being at least as winds subsided and humidity rose.

A wireless dispatch to the Duluth National Guard from Kaheto-gama lake, 50 miles west of International Falls, said the flames had "burned out" on a peninsula after blackening 30,000 acres.

Rangers in the Grand Portage State Forest, near Pine Lake, advised 400 men had halted the fire there for the first time.

State forestry department officials here assumed that the third big blaze, which threatened to cross the international boundary above Warroad and drove several settlers from their homes, had been controlled since they received no reports to the contrary.

G. O. P. HEAD IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—A proud mother went to the airport today to welcome her son, John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national committee chairman.

Mrs. John D. M. Hamilton, sr., of Santa Monica, was accompanied by her second son, Hale Hamilton and his wife. With them went a large committee of Los Angeles leaders in the Landon-Knox campaign.

Hamilton's plane was scheduled to arrive from Oakland at 11 a. m. During a three-day stay in Southern California, Chairman Hamilton will speak tomorrow night at the Hollywood bowl after a torchlight parade. Joseph Scott will be master of ceremonies and Edward S. Shattuck, president of the California Republican Assembly, will introduce Hamilton.

HOOVER TALKS ON POLITICS

New Mexican Chief En Route

MEXICO CITY, (AP)—Gen. Rafael Navarro Cortina, newly appointed military governor of the northern district of Lower California, was enroute to Mexico today to take over his post.

Navarro Cortina, former chief of the first military zone, which included this capital, replaces General Gabriel Garcia, who resigned.

New chief of the first zone is General Benecid Lopez, now stationed in the state of Sateacates, who will arrive in Mexico City Aug. 16.

NEVADA GIRDS FOR WAR ON CRAWLING INSECTS

ELKO, Nev. (AP)—A new sort of war is being fought on the northwestern Nevada range, with the "enemy" a mass of crawling, hungry black insects.

Trench warfare, chemical warfare, and attacks from the air are being used by a force of some 200 Works Progress administration employees, 60 members of the Civilian corps, and a small band of technical experts.

The battlegrounds embrace approximately 40,000 square miles in the three Nevada counties. Insects killed by chemicals are not countable, but captured and destroyed bugs in the trench campaign exceed 100,000 bushels.

War on in Earnest
Mormon crickets have been invading Nevada in increasing numbers in the last four years. They are about two inches long, similar to grasshoppers but unable to fly. They travel in bands. Their eggs, stored underground, survive winter freezing with no apparent loss of vitality.

Last year the crickets forced the ranchers to organize control measures, and this season finds the fight on in earnest.

In the trench warfare 18-inch strips of sheet metal are set end to end forming impenetrable fences as long as six or seven miles.

At intervals sheet metal traps are erected or deep pits dug. Into these traps the insects are driven, there to be burned or covered over with dirt.

Airplane-Dusting
The chemical warfare is handled by blowing mixed arsenic and lime from hand operated "guns" onto the insects' bodies. They die in one to three days.

More spectacular was a recent experiment of dusting the crickets with the same chemicals scattered from a low-flying airplane. The efficacy of this method is still being discussed.

The pests are regular in their travel and feeding habits. They do not travel at night nor in the heat of the day. This has permitted regular hours for sleep and work by the control workers. Another habit of the crickets is that of following the leader, somewhat like a band of sheep. This makes it easy to "herd" them into the traps.

Again Next Year
Where the crickets have crossed highways large signs frequently warn motorists that the road is "Slippery—Crickets."

This year's campaign is nearly over, but officials said today they had not been able to prevent deposits of eggs in the soil. For that reason, another invasion of the crop-devastating insects is expected in 1937.

Heads Militia

Col. F. C. Hammer, head of the Idaho National Guard, is in the red approximately $40,000,000, with $50,000,000 in registered warrants outstanding. State Controller Ray L. Riley's statement issued today for the first six months of the year disclosed. A year ago the state was $34,500,000 on the wrong side of the ledger. The increase in the indebtedness was due principally to relief expenditures.

STATE IS 40 MILLION IN THE RED

SACRAMENTO, (AP)—California is in the red approximately $40,000,000, with $50,000,000 in registered warrants outstanding. State Controller Ray L. Riley's statement issued today for the first six months of the year disclosed. A year ago the state was $34,500,000 on the wrong side of the ledger. The increase in the indebtedness was due principally to relief expenditures.

Personal taxes brought in over $140,000 to the general fund, the statement showed. Gasoline, bank and corporation franchise taxes and alcoholic beverage revenues registered gains.

HOOVER TALKS ON POLITICS

PALO ALTO, (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover and John Hamilton, the Republican national chairman, discussed Republican campaign issues and tactics at a conference today.

After the meeting, held at Hoover's home on the Stanford university campus, Hamilton said the part Hoover may play in the coming campaign did not enter into the discussion.

There has been some speculation as to whether the former President might stump Maine and Pennsylvania for the Republican ticket.

Personal taxes brought in over $140,000 to the general fund, the statement showed. Gasoline, bank and corporation franchise taxes and alcoholic beverage revenues registered gains.

New County Water Supply

PROPOSALS that Orange county join the Metropolitan Water District should have the deep consideration of every person affected. Orange county, in common with other sections of Southern California, faces an increasingly difficult water problem. The natural water tables are dropping, the agricultural and domestic demand is growing—and the final solution is not clearly in sight.

An adequate water supply certainly must be obtained from somewhere if this rich and fertile Southland is to live up to the promise of the future. Our visions of a Pacific slope empire, with countless factories, and farms, and cities and harbors, stretching from the Tehachapi range south to the Mexican line can come true only if we get the water needed for full development.

This water must be obtained at a reasonable cost, too. If it comes too high, it is practically useless, since our agriculture must compete in the eastern and transoceanic markets with products grown where farming costs are relatively cheap.

Many critics of the MWD program for bringing Colorado river water to Orange county have in the past complained that it is too expensive for economical use by agriculture. It may be that they are correct. Apparently the cost is not considered too high for domestic use, however, by the residents of Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton, who have already become a part of the MWD setup, although the preliminary expenses of piping the water into those cities seems to have run above what originally was anticipated.

Unquestionably Orange county must find a new water supply somewhere if it is to reach the maximum development. Whether this is to come from conserving the rainfall in our own watershed, or from the Mojave or Colorado rivers, or some other source, we cannot say.

But the comparative costs and benefits of all these plans should be carefully considered before the county commits itself to definite action. A mistake might cost millions.

Parking Meters for Santa Ana

AUTOISTS may have to pay a nickel for the privilege of stopping and shopping for an hour in downtown Santa Ana if plans now being studied by the city council are put into effect. The city dads are devoting a lot of serious thought to the installation of parking meters within the next few months.

Parking meters, new in the West, have done much to relieve traffic congestion in several eastern cities where they are now in operation, it is claimed by the manufacturers. Councilman Layton has gone East to check up their claims.

Before taking final action upon the parking meters, the council should make a thorough investigation from every angle. There's no use putting the meters in here if the public doesn't want them, if the merchants suffer a business loss, if it is illegal for California cities to rent the streets for parking purposes, if the long rows of meters will mar civic beauty, if the city doesn't get the best price obtainable after consulting several companies and putting the matter to bids, and if the meters drive rural shoppers to other communities.

It's true enough that parking facilities in downtown Santa Ana are pitifully inadequate. But let's not stick up a flock of parking meters along the city streets until we are sure they will solve the problem.

Educate Them for Jobs

IS THE college and high school system of education largely to blame for the economic plight of our young men and women? Isaac F. Marcossan, author, seems to think so. In the American Magazine just out he says: "The urge for any white collar job and the failure to find it have done more than anything else to put youth in a jam. The gap between education and employment is the pit into which youth has fallen."

To support this, he cites the condition in Connecticut, where, among 43,000 jobless young men and women, 75 per cent are untrained for any kind of skilled work. Yet, despite the battalions of unemployed, there is a shortage of skilled labor.

We do not think it is fair to blame the schools for a national economic maladjustment in which so many varying factors have played a part. But undoubtedly there is a gap between education and employment which school authorities could bridge somewhat by careful study of vocational opportunities and by intensive training of young people to fill them.

'No More New Taxes'

FEDERAL taxes will not be increased, and may be "slightly reduced" at the next session of congress, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announces after a huddle with President Roosevelt. Well, it's high time. Federal levies have been going up like a balloon for the past three years.

Explanation for the proposed "decrease" is that business conditions have improved so much that the present levies will produce enough to carry on the New Deal program without recourse to new exactions.

The whole nation earnestly hopes that Secretary Morgenthau's statement can be relied upon. Promises of "breathing spells" and "no more taxes this session" from the New Deal high command have not been kept in the past. So the public can't be blamed for refusing to accept the treasury department chief's prediction without a sprinkling of salt—especially during an election year.

The administration should not only reduce taxes. It should also give us our money's worth for those it collects.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

Thoughts while strolling: I like Fred Allen's mot: Push over the Empire State building and New York is only Omaha. A variant of someone's Hollywood is only Bridgeport with palms. Add moon faces: Leon Gordon's. Not many have more fun seeing what makes New York tick than Roscoe Peacock.

Book suggestion: Georges, the Algonquin head waiter, about the literati—the real and the phony. Burt MacBride, the magazine, and his twins, And Ted Saucier and his Ohio bride, Hollywood has done little for Patsy Kelly sartorially. She still looks Avenue A, bless her.

What marriage does-for-a-fellow note: Winnie Sheehan had no interest in music until he married the glamorous Jeritza. And now he's a classical music fan. If I were to select the handsomest and most sophisticated-looking male New Yorker I'd put the finger on Peter Arno. The playwright, George Middleton.

Hard to find a look-alike for Harpo Marx. Nat Lewis in his twenty-fifth year of haberdashing to the Jolson's, the Runyons and Valleys of Broadway. Never pass the Palace somehow without a thought for the ministerial E. F. Albee. What a wretched vaudeville's plight would be for him!

One word description of Katharine Cornell: wily. David Warfield still pulls up at 1 p. m. at the Lambs daily for his round of pinole. With a cape he could go on as the music master without make-up. Auto Row, so long seamy, opulent again. The debutante George Bye.

Hollywood may become a theatrical as well as cinema capital. For some time there has been a definite idea among producers that it's far easier to obtain talent in Hollywood than on Broadway—most of the capable players are there. Lee Shubert is already producing on the Pacific Coast, having presented Talullah Bankhead in a George Kelly play in San Francisco. He will try out other plays in Los Angeles and Hollywood instead of the summer theaters in the East. Henry Miller long ago produced plays in San Francisco successfully.

Nostalgic note out of the mail bag: "The small middle western town is the same on Saturday night as when you lived in one. The same people still do their shopping for the week or just walk around to see who is downtown. The same bunch of Booth Tarkington's '17's" are running around in a circle looking for dates. Drummers sit at tables in front of the hotels and always our town pauses at 8:15 when the Continental Express roars by."

Many successful dealers in live fish and birds for domestic pets in New York are Japanese. They seem to have a knack for the business and several have grown wealthy, one owning a salmon pink minaret on a reach of the drive. And the majority of the established dog shops are proprietoried by the English. There is a prosperous colony of English dog shop keepers on Staten Island, where they also maintain boarding and breeding kennels.

Ray Long once assigned me a magazine piece to find, if possible, the loneliest soul in New York. There were so many gradations, so many depths and such a surfeit of poignancy we gave it up. But accidentally the other day I stumbled upon the almost perfect type for such an article. A Swiss maid in a Park avenue apartment house, widowed in the war and without relatives. For 11 years she has been doing her routine work without being more than five blocks from her place. She has never attended a single amusement nor heard from her native land. Her diversion is sitting at her roof-top window, watching the city light up.

The hottest rivals in the book publishing field are two youthful and scrappy firms that have given the staid old publishing houses some modern upshots in ballyhoo. One of the jongleurs describes the battle thus: "The little black hen to the little black rooster. 'You don't crow so loud as Simon and Schuster.' Said the little black rooster to the little black hen. 'You've been talking to Farrar and Rinehart again!'" (Copyright, 1935)

Bright Moments

During the civil war, a young Union cavalry officer imprudently took his detachment within the enemy lines near Fairfax court house, and was captured with his entire command. The matter was taken to President Lincoln, who remarked that he was sorry to lose the horses. "What do you mean?" he was asked. "Why," said the president, "we can make a better brigadier any day, but those horses cost the government $125 a head."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—The chairman of the national committee of either party always is on the hot spot, whether it be Jim Farley, Walter Brown or Will Hays. And now chairman John M. Hamilton is sitting there.

Hamilton's trouble is coming from right inside the Republican party. And though nothing is being said publicly, it is causing some of the higher-ups a little worry.

Some of Landon's best friends and staunchest supporters are progressives of the William Allen White class, none too keen about Hamilton. They get along with him on the surface, but keep their fingers crossed underneath the table. They can't forget the fact that he was a pet pupil of Dave Mulvane, who was to Kansas what Charlie Murphy was to Tammany.

Slashing at Hamilton's coat-tails on the other side are two very effective Old Guarders—Charles Hilles, national committee man from New York, and J. Henry Roraback, who occupies the same pink minaret in Connecticut. At one time Charles and Henry were reported to have put in a quiet war to prevent Hamilton's appointment as national chairman.

At any rate, no love is now lost between them, though it probably won't make any of them vote for Roosevelt.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

During his recent trip east, Father Charles Coughlin told friends that the week prior to Herbert Hoover's speech at the Republican convention in Cleveland he received two long-distance telephone calls from the ex-president.

According to Coughlin, Hoover discussed his speech and assured the priest that he was going to blast the federal reserve system as revised by the New Deal banking act of 1935.

At the last minute, however, Hoover changed his mind. Coughlin said, and deleted all reference to the radio priest's pet hate.

GOLDFISH BOWL

Chief Justice Hughes has a hard time getting any privacy, even in the summer. His white beard, his stately mien, identify him instantly to anyone who has seen his picture.

On one occasion, when Hughes was secretary of state, Charles MacArthur, playwright husband of Helen Hayes, saw him walking down Fifth avenue, and walked just behind him, repeating over and over again:

"I know you, Mr. Secretary of State. I know you, Mr. Secretary of State. I know you, Mr. Secretary of State."

Finally Hughes called a taxi and escaped.

This summer Hughes is vacationing in New Hampshire, but even there he cannot avoid the public eye. Mrs. Hughes is a patroness of a summer theater, "The Forty-Niners," and one day the chief justice and his wife, both of whom enjoy the theater, dropped in.

But the photographers were there ahead of him. The chief justice ducked, was somewhat annoyed, got his tickets mixed up, but finally reached the comparative peace of the orchestra pit.

WOUNDED FEELINGS

Governor Landon certainly put his finger on a sore spot when he charged that there are politics in the AAA.

New Deal agricultural chiefs are hopping mad at the accusation. With great indignation they insist it is not true, and as evidence of non-partisanship cite these facts:

Lee M. Gentry, chairman of the Illinois conservation commission, administering the new soil conservation act in that state is the former manager of ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden's model farm. Gentry also had charge of the Illinois corn-hog program under the old AAA.

R. M. Evans, one of the executives of the Iowa soil conservation administration, is a prominent Republican whose name was mentioned as a G. O. P. candidate for senator.

Further, the administration points out, the officials of the county committees are elected locally by the farmers themselves. If there is any politics, they say, it comes from the farmers.

Note—Big Jim Farley may not have named any of the top-run AAA officials in Washington or in the field, but many a lovely clerk and stenographer owes his job to the intervention of Julien Friant, a Farley aide, who was made special assistant to Secretary Henry Wallace.

RADIO PARTIES

Feminine master minds of the Democratic national committee have evolved a new wrinkle in winning women's votes. They plan to replace the old-fashioned sewing circle with radio parties.

Each state is to have a radio chairman, who in turn will have under her a chairman in every county, who in turn will command a flock of local chairmen.

And when an important Democratic harangue is broadcast, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, director of radio of the women's division, will flash the word to the state chairmen, who will speed it to the local party workers.

They, in turn, invite the neighbors to partake of refreshments and listen to Democratic words of wisdom.

MERRY-GO-ROUND
Treasury officials are scratching their heads over an unaccountable increase in the number of $10,000 federal reserve notes now in circulation. The amount of these bills jumped last fiscal year from $13,000,000 to $23,000,000.

Hard, "non-partisan" radio harangue of the Republican national committee, has a staff of investigators working under him to dig up ammunition against the New Deal. Two of these agents have been doing some gunnash work in Pennsylvania, in an effort to uncover data on relief politics and for reforms to be effected.

But many an ambitious legislator is missing a beautiful opportunity to make a shining name for himself by boldly foregoing the paltry dollars coming to him.

Members of congress get ten thousand dollars salary, and about as much more in clerk hire, traveling expenses, barber shop and restaurant privileges and the opportunity to buy many commodities at heavy discounts. The total appropriation for the legislative branch for the ensuing year is in excess of twelve million. Of course, among items running into billions this is mere "chicken feed." And our worthy solons give the appearance of being very modest in their requirements.

What Other Editors Say

EUROPE'S WAR PANIC

(The San Francisco Chronicle)
Forty million gas masks cost money, and are not good for the equanimity of a people. The British government would not buy and distribute them unless it thought the danger of war was near and real.

Battleships and submarines cost much money, to build and to run, and armies and forts are expensive extravaganzas.

All the countries of Europe would not be overtaxing and under-serving their people, in a frantic race for supremacy in these things, unless they regarded the menace of war as a reality and not merely a hypothesis. The race to get the advantage in new alliances, with Britain, France and Italy in a fierce rivalry for Hitler's favor, and the very lives of Poland, the other Balkan states, Greece and Turkey stalked as pawns in a game, would not go on unless the statesmen of Europe regarded the emergency as real.

MIDDLE-WEST SPADE WORK

(Chicago Tribune)
A recent wave of sentiment from President Roosevelt toward Governor Landon in the Middle West farm areas, as indicated by recent test polls, is considered by observers to be due in no small part to the fact that Republican organizers started their campaign in those sections at an early date. In fact, the "grass roots" convention at Springfield, Ill., in June, 1935, was the beginning of Landon's serious bid for the Republican nomination. At that meeting, John D. M. Hamilton, now Republican national chairman, had on a twofold program to carry out. He had first to convince farmers that their best interest lay with the Republican party, and, secondly, to convince well-to-do industrialists that they wanted the kind of a Republican party which would appeal to the farmer.

Howdy, folks! One good thing about not having a bathtub in your beach cottage is that, if you haven't got one, the children can't keep their starfish, crabs and minnows in it.

Li'l Gee Gee ought to be more careful. She went in swimming yesterday at Huntington Beach and the water washed all her summer tan off.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Joe Bungstarter, the people's pal, announced today that he will withdraw from the race for president. He will resume his duties as executive secretary of the Fraternal Order of Mumps & Measles and as treasurer of the Goldfish Shiners' association (goldfish shined and burnished, 75 cents).

Chairman at Political Rally: The next speaker on the program is a man you all know. His name is a household word in every family, and this town is mighty proud to claim him. It is with pleasure that I introduce—a—er—what the heck's your name?

Life is short at best. Few of us have long enough to wear out a pair of store teeth.

YE DIARY

Up betimes, and to breakfasting on some perch which Little Art did catch yesterday, and I do exclaim over the delicate flavor of the fish. Albeit, when Little Art is not looking, I do throw my fish in the fireplace. And so to town, mighty hungry, and to a restaurant, where order a double portion of ham and eggs, better food never I tasted in this life before! And so to the printshop.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Public Waste and Graft Is National Sin

LEGISLATORS make such pretense about economy in government. But it is mostly make-believe, designed to fool the people. Not until members of congress are willing to give up their many prerequisites, the various odds and ends of pap, can they talk honestly of economy. Their petty gratings, trifling in themselves, make an impressive total when 531 members are at it year in and year out. And, worse yet, is the example of hypocrisy which they set before the country. And since only congress can change these things we may look in vain for reforms to be effected.

But many an ambitious legislator is missing a beautiful opportunity to make a shining name for himself by boldly foregoing the paltry dollars coming to him.

Members of congress get ten thousand dollars salary, and about as much more in clerk hire, traveling expenses, barber shop and restaurant privileges and the opportunity to buy many commodities at heavy discounts. The total appropriation for the legislative branch for the ensuing year is in excess of twelve million. Of course, among items running into billions this is mere "chicken feed." And our worthy solons give the appearance of being very modest in their requirements.

Legislators have only one scheme to meet budgetary needs, and that is, to lay on more and more taxes. They never seem to think of the other alternative—to cut down expenses. And to set a worthy and patriotic example by reducing their own personal demands to the minimum.

But not until law-makers are willing to pare to the bone their own demands on the public purse

Skinny Skribbles

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

John Knox brings in brother Charley, also from Oklahoma. Charley brought Mrs. Knox with him and the Knoxs are all enjoying a month's visit together at that right. If I haven't I'll be glad to make the correction tomorrow, as that will give me another paragraph. Charley reports widespread drought damage in his state. But, says he, "we have a lot of company as there are about 15 other states as bad off as we are." So we got down to a more pleasant subject, and I ask him about Frank Phillips, and he says: "He's all right. A fine man." And I knew that 50 years ago. But I was glad to get a confirmation, even if I had to wait 50 years for it.

The cafeteria Kellys are home from a fishing trip to the high Sierras, or some high place, making the journey via the celestial route. The fishing was excellent. Pat didn't know when to stop casting, so he has a sore arm. The air was rarified and plenty of it. The higher the machine, the greater the desire to go on. On the ground, and the other mighty close to it, that's the one reason I've never took an airplane ride. The ground is too far away from the plane.

Friend calls my attention to one of those old "high-wheeler" bicycle pictures, and wants to know if I ever saw one. Say, when you get tipped over the handle bars once, you remember it a lifetime. Remember away back when they had the old board sidewalks and some of the planks were laid the long way? Well, officers to save number the planks were not laid very close together. That's why I remember the high-wheeler.

Judge Mitchell occasionally gets a rose among the thorns. Visit, or, unacquainted with the city's traffic laws, pinched for an over-parking violation, gets notice to appear. By correspondence he explains the incident, asks the amount of the fine and is willing to meet the penalty. It is not the custom of the court to impose fines for an initial offense upon visitors who inadvertently fail to meet the traffic regulations, so when the court so informed the offender he replied courteously. But Judge Mitchell gets other letters that don't read that way. However, the court made a friend for Santa Ana.

I appreciate the noon oasis when I can sit down with some fellow who knows something about something. There's food in the noon rest period if you are fortunate enough to get in with some one who reads and thinks and has opinions, even when you do not agree with him. When the gamut runs from business to politics, religion to atheism, independence to dictatorship, and a little science thrown into the conversation crucible, the food tastes better and the old spark-box has got to keep working if you want to stay in the procession. You can get that kind of an intellectual meal usually when the party is confined to two people. They talk more freely and frankly. You know all the food isn't served by the chef and the waiter.

No souvenir cards today. Guess "the fish and the lot" or else all the vacationists are home.

Got my notice from Joe Backs to go and vote August 25th. He didn't tell me who to vote for but he put a lot of names on a piece of paper, told me where to go to cast the ballot, and had made the previous arrangements for clerks and judges to hand me a ballot and another crowd to take it way from me. Then he gets all the ballots back again. All we get is the results, and that is what Joe sent the ballots for in the first place. Seems fair enough, don't it. Well, go and vote at the primary election, and never mind the rest of the apoplexy.

Our Paul Bodenhamer had an article about rats in last night's paper. There is some information about the peculiarities of the rodents that he might get from Barney Koster. Barney says a rat tried to share his garage but wouldn't pay rent, so he sent for the department which evicts rats, and they made a success of it. Which recalls a story about a rat who was bothered with rats which was the attic as a playground. He set a trap, caught one by the leg, and before he could get to it the rat chewed off his leg and beat it. This story may sound a little limpy, but he says it's true.

This is a favorable time to take a summer cold. Naturally it being summer that's the kind of a cold it would have to be. I have been offered a number of remedies, most of them at my expense. So far I've decided to worry along the cold.

The foreman wants the copy for this column, so I'll close the sermon for to.
